CHICAGO PRESS ANSWERS GANG DEFY

SIMMONS WAS NOT PUNISHED BY HIS PARTY

DEMOCRATS MERELY CURBING G. O. P. INVASION

Washington, June 10.—Superficially the defeat of Senator Simmons will be regarded as a punishment directed at him for bolting his party and refusing to support former Governor Smith in 1928 but actually it is the answer of the Democratic party in the South to Republican invasion.

To carry the electoral vote of Southern states for the Republican party seemed in 1928 to some people to augur a permanent break in the solid South while to others it was incidental to Governor Smith's candidacy and not likely to be repeated. It was asserted then that to capture the national ticket meant encouragement for the Republicans in seeking control of the state tickets in Southern states. The Democratic party in the South is not willing to see the Republicans build up a stronghold on their voters and so when an issue of regularity or irregularity presents itself, North Carolina like Virginia is unwilling to give the Republicans any leverage.

Josiah W. Bailey who defeated Senator Simmons for the Democratic nomination for the United States senate waged exactly the campaign that the successful candidate for governor did in Virginia last year. There were no efforts at recrimination — no unkind words for the Democrats who bolted the Smith ticket. The Democratic state organization in Virginia and also in North Carolina almost without exception supported the winning candidates for office all they could not see the Republican party in their respective states encouraged.

Local Conditions Entered.

Fundamental politics applying primarily to local conditions therefore brought about the defeat of Senator Simmons. He is also courageous as he is conscientious and it would have been easier for him to support the national ticket in 1928 than to bolt it. He has had a long career in the United States senate and has always been regarded in both parties as one of the most powerful men in tariff and taxation matters that the senate has produced. Woodrow Wilson as president-elect listened for a while to a talk of unseating Simmons because of his conservatism but found on arriving in Washington that the North Carolina senator could be a staunch supporter of progressive policies in the interest of party harmony.

If Senator Simmons were to run independently there is no doubt that the race in North Carolina would be close for he could cut a large Republican vote and

Woman's Duty to Drive from Rear, Is Court Ruling

Atlanta, Ga., June 10 (AP)—The Georgia court of appeals today ruled inferentially that it is not only the right but the duty of a woman to assist her husband by back-seat driving.

Mrs. R. H. Pickard of Atlanta had sought damages from the Georgia Power company for injuries received when an automobile driven by her husband was struck by a street car. The court found that Mrs. Pickard had seen the car approaching and did not warn her husband.

"By the exercise of ordinary care she could have avoided the accident," the opinion, granting a nonsuit, read.

INDIAN GOV'T REPORT FLAYED

Initial Installment Is Not Received With Favor by Press

London, June 10 (AP)—Discussion of the first volume of Sir John Simon's Indian government report today overshadowed all other developments in the Indian situation.

The Indian press did not take as kindly to the initial installment, which was a thorough analysis, as had been hoped. Hindu leaders criticized it severely. It had fewer friends among congress spokesmen than before its publication.

London newspapers paid tribute to the achievement of the Simon commission, emphasized its importance, praised the unanimity of its members and stressed a likelihood that whatever recommendations may be contained in the second and final release on June 24, the self-determination of native India remained a matter of the distant future.

The Mail and the Telegraph saw in the report no prospect of self-government at short notice and nothing to comfort Indian extremists who have demanded early establishment of a dominion status.

The Laborite Daily Herald insisted transition to a responsible government would have to be carried out as quickly as might be while the Liberal News and Chronicle foresaw a swing of government favor toward self-rule in the commission's tribute to the manner in which the Indians have worked the constitution set up in 1929.

Dispatches from India brought tidings that Sir Phirote Sethna, Liberal Federation president, had spoken disparagingly of the report, in which he was echoed by Sir Chimanlal Setalbad, Bombay council member, and H. P. Mody, president of the Mill Owners association.

The Indian press summed the congress attitude in the heading of the Bombay Chronicle, "Simon commission insults India." The Chronicle adds, "The report is infinitely worse than its critics feared."

Demo Leader Quits Senatorial Race

Adrian, Mich., June 10 (AP)—Withdrawal from the state contest for the Democratic nomination for senator by Edward Frensdorf, of Hudson, Democratic leader, was the principal development in the Michigan political situation today.

In a letter to Henry H. Heimann, of Niles, chairman of the Democratic state central committee, Frensdorf said he would not be a candidate for United States senator and asked that the circulation of petitions in his behalf be stopped.

"I have always thought I have been a consistent Democrat," Frensdorf wrote, "but if the only yardstick by which a Democrat is to be measured in his attitude on prohibition, I evidently have never been." He added that he would not be a candidate on a platform written either by fanatical wets or fanatical drys. He held that prohibition is not a party issue.

Detroit Ranks As Fourth City In United States

Detroit, June 10 (AP)—Its rank as fourth American city unquestioned, Detroit today was added to the rolls of the 1930 census with a population of 1,564,397.

This figure is official but not final, being subject to revision upward.

This increase of 570,719, or 57 per cent, over 1920 placed the city more than 330,000 ahead of Los Angeles, its nearest competitor for fourth place honors. The latter city's population as announced last week is 1,231,730

Detroiters today were reckoning the suburban cities of Highland Park and Hamtramck as part of their city. Doing so swelled the Detroit population total to 1,675,697. Both these municipalities are within the corporate limits of Detroit.

SHIPS COLLIDE IN HEAVY FOG, TANKER SINKS

SEVERAL REPORTED SERIOUSLY HURT IN ACCIDENT

EIGHT INJURED.

Boston, June 11. (AP)—Eight persons were injured in a collision of the steamer Fairfax of the Merchants and Miners Transportation company and a vessel tentatively identified as the steamship Grecian off Scituate last night.

Boston, June 10 (AP)—The steamship Fairfax of the Merchants and Miners Transportation company, carrying 71 passengers from Boston for Philadelphia and Baltimore, collided in a fog tonight with an oil tanker at sea off Scituate, Mass., near Boston. Several passengers were reported badly injured and the tanker, whose identity was not determined immediately, was reported sunk.

Details Lacking

News of the accident was received at the offices of the line here but details were lacking several hours after the collision.

The steamship Gloucester of the same line and following a similar course as the Fairfax, was in the vicinity of the collision and went to the aid of the two ships. She reported to the offices of the company that the passengers were being transferred to her and that she would bring them back to Boston.

On the basis of the meagre reports received, ambulances, physicians and nurses were summoned to the pier and arrangements were made to transfer the injured immediately to a hospital.

An almost impenetrable pea-soup fog blanketed the coast and it was believed hours would be required to make the trip into the harbor. From the pier here it was impossible to see more than a few feet out over the water.

Crew of 70 Men

The Fairfax, a steamship of 5600 gross tons was making her first trip of the season. She was under the command of Captain Archibald Brooks, and carried a crew of 70 men. She sailed from her pier here at 5 o'clock in the afternoon. Fog then hung over the harbor and she moved out slowly. The point at which the collision was reported to have occurred is about 27 miles out in Massachusetts bay. Captain Brooks reported to the company shortly after the collision.

He said he had anchored off Scituate and his message was followed later by one from Captain A. C. Bunting of the Gloucester, reporting he was on the scene. The Gloucester, carrying 16 passengers, sailed from Boston about three hours after the Fairfax.

No report was received as to what had happened to the tanker or her crew.

Rain Mars Opening Of Shriners' Meet In Toronto, Canada

Toronto, June 10 (AP)—Rain marred the grand opening program of the International Shrine convention today, causing postponement until tomorrow of the parade of the ancient Arabic Order Nobles of the Mystic Shrine along Lake Shore boulevard and cancellation of a dozen other outdoor events scheduled for the past three days have been overflowing with excitement-seeking throngs.

Burlesque mystical rites, dramatic recitals, sword dances and side shows of all descriptions sprang up in hotel lobbies corridors and sheltered doorways and only a handful of nobles, garbed in Shrine raincoats, caps and umbrellas, braved the rain for an impromptu parade

A massed band concert and a boxing program tonight were transferred into the Coliseum.

Police Open Drive On Poisoned Booze

New York, June 10 (AP)—Dozens of "smoke joints," alleged speakeasies, drug stores and other places suspected of selling poisonous liquor, were raided tonight by fifty prohibtion agents masquerading as Bowery derelicts.

The raids, led by Major Maurice Campbell, prohibition administrator, were aimed at the source of poisoned liquor which has been blamed for 32 deaths in the city during the past 30 days.

Major Campbell described some of the liquid seized as "denatured alcohol of the kind intended for use as an anti-freeze mixture for automobiles." In other places, he said, the liquor "proved to be pure synthetic wood alcohol."

Hundreds of derelicts, lying stupefied in several of the alleged Bowery speakeasies, were carried into the fresh air by agents

"Ginger Jake" Probe Is Ordered by Senate

Washington, June 10 (AP)—All records of the agriculture department regarding bootleg traffic in "ginger jake," a product misrepresented as standard Jamaica ginger extract and sold for beverage purposes, were demanded today by the senate agriculture committee after it was informed that officials considered the traffic "a prohibition problem."

Caused Paralysis

Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, declared before the committee he "understood thousands of cases" of paralysis, blindness and reported deaths had resulted from drinking the extract. Wheeler said he was "told the product is going all over the country," that it is "being sold wholesale, in interstate commerce, with a standard label."

W. G. Campbell, chief of the agriculture department division for enforcement of the pure food and drugs act, said department officials had investigated some complaints and taken action against some shipments but that "both the prohibition bureau and our officials have concluded it is a prohibition problem."

Campbell was directed to return on Thursday with the department files. He is expected to answer at that time other charges of lax enforcement of standards regulating foods and drugs.

The committee's attention was called to the ginger product today by H. W. Ambruster, a New York drug importer, who testified sub-standard ergot, a drug used in obstetrics, has been allowed to circulate. Ambruster said enforcement was lax also on "digitalis, ginger and other crude drugs."

Tells Difference

"Do you know anything about this?" Senator Wheeler interrupted, producing samples of fluid extracts. The Montana senator said one was bona fide Jamaica ginger extract and the other was "ginger jake." He read a newspaper clipping quoting Commissioner Doran that thousands of cases of ill results from drinking the latter had been reported in Mississippi and Louisiana.

State Trying to Convict Indian

Big Rapids, Mich., June 10 (AP)—The state today opened its second effort to convict Big Elk, 70-year old Indian "Medicine Man", on a charge of practicing medicine without a license.

Big Elk's first trial, a year ago, ended in a disagreement. At that time the Indian denied he had violated any statute. He said he had merely followed the studies he has been making of herbs for the past 60 years. His methods, he said, had been handed down through his people for generations.

COMISH OKEHS WAR VETS BILL

But President Hoover Is Expected to Veto The Measure

Washington, June 10. (AP)—The modified house bill to liberalize World war veterans' compensation, providing an additional yearly outlay of about $74,000,000 was approved today by the senate finance committee.

Immediately conjectures that the president would veto the measure if passed were renewed.

Representative Rankin, Democrat, Mississippi, said in a statement "it has been predicted that the bill will be vetoed."

On the senate side of the capital, also, it was said that the president was not in sympathy with the bill. It was predicted by some that if the measure was passed by the senate it would remain in conference until next session, which would avoid a pocket veto at the close of the present session.

Senator Shortridge, Republican, California, who presided at the finance committee meeting, and others who have been active in demands for liberalization declared, however, they were confident the bill would be enacted at this session. Shortridge said he "indulged in the assumption that if passed substantially as presented, the president would sign it."

Shortridge will report the measure tomorrow and will ask for its consideration as soon as the tariff and the river and harbors bills have been disposed of.

Cheboygan Banker Found Dead, Shot

Cheboygan, Mich., June 10 (AP)—The body of Clyde Milliken, 44, in charge of the savings department of the First National bank of Cheboygan, was found in the garage of the Milliken summer home at Burt Lake. He had been shot through the head.

Bank examiners had spent yesterday going over the bank's books but had found no shortage. They are continuing the audit.

An inquest had not been completed tonight. Sheriff O. H. Gebhardt said he believed Milliken had taken his own life.

Postpone Test of Miss England II

London, June 10 (AP)—Sir Henry Seagrave was forced to abandon the first trial of his speed boat, Miss England II, on Lake Windermere today due to a broken propeller. Just prior to the accident, however, Seagrave said the boat was going well over the world's speed record and that he was certain it would establish a new mark.

ASSERT RIGHTS TO PACT NOTES

Senate Foreign Relations Committee Set to Act on Denial

Washington, June 10. (AP)—The senate foreign relations committee is prepared to assert in a formal resolution its rights to the notes denied it by President Hoover.

Just how far the adoption of this resolution, which is generally expected by committee members on Thursday, will go in the row over ratification of the London naval treaty is problematical but that some members would insist that action on the treaty be deferred until the papers have been received. The papers were exchanged among the various powers in negotiations prior to the parley.

Senator Black, Democrat, Alabama, who has been counted among the supporters of the treaty, proposed the resolution asserting the committee's right to the secret papers. There is more than a possibility that Mr. Hoover's refusal to give up these documents may be made the excuse of several senators in opposing prompt action on the pact.

Meanwhile, both those circulating petitions asking a delay in consideration of the treaty and those soliciting signers to one asking the members to stay here until the pact is voted upon claimed 25 signatures today.

Senate Committee Perplexed on What To do With Cannon

Washington, June 10 (AP)—Further inquiry into the political activities of Bishop James Cannon, Jr., by the senate lobby committee was considered a possibility today as the investigators found themselves unable to agree on what should be done about his defiance.

Another round of conferences left the committee members as sharply divided as ever on what action should be taken as the result of the southern Methodist bishop's refusal to answer questions about his 1928 anti-Smith activities and his abrupt departure from the committee room last Thursday.

A formal meeting of the committee has been called for tomorrow and renewed attempts will be made then to reach an agreement. A number of proposals have been advanced but each one has encountered opposition.

Power Measure Is Sent to Conference

Washington, June 10 (AP)—The Couzens bill to reorganize the federal power commission by substituting an independent body for three cabinet members, as constituted at present, was sent to conference today to adjust differences between the senate and the house.

The principal difference between the two houses consists in the number of members to be placed on the commission. The senate agreed upon three and the house in passing the measure yesterday raised the number to five.

Senators Couzens, Republican, Michigan, Watson, Republican, Indiana, and Pittman, Democrat, Nevada, were named senate conferees.

While the measure was being sent to conference, President Hoover again voiced his approval of the legislation.

TARIFF'S FATE TO BE DECIDED FRIDAY, 2 P. M.

SENATE SETS DATE; CLOSE VOTE IS IN PROSPECT

Washington, June 10 (AP)—The fate of the tariff bill, believed to hinge on one or two votes will be decided in the senate on Friday at 2 p. m.

This day and hour was set by unanimous consent of all senators today after it was found most of them coluld be present at that time.

Predicts Victory

"I think we will win but it is very close," was the terse comment of Senator Watson, of Indiana the Republican leader.

> FRIDAY THE 13TH
> Washington, June 10 (AP)—The senate was amused today at realizing it had decided to hold the final vote on the long controverted tariff bill on Friday, the thirteenth.
> Senator LaFollette, Republican, Wisconsin, observed he could not think of a more appropriate time "to vote on this bill." No attempt was made, however, to change to a more lucky day.

Democrats were making no predictions, but strangely enough they were looking to Pennsylvania's two Republican senators, Reed and Grundy, to help defeat the bill. Both still were in the doubtful column tonight. Reed is expected to make his position known tomorrow on the floor.

Chairman Hawley of the house ways and means committee, announced in the house that he would call up the conference reports on the measure on Saturday if the senate takes affirmative action.

The first test will come on a motion to recommit the measure to conference. Senator Blaine, Republican Independent, Wisconsin, entered such a motion today with a protest that the conferees had disregarded all scientific bases in arriving at the duty on cheese.

Blaine and Senator Smoot, Republican, Utah, clashed heatedly over this statement. The former said he conferred with Smoot yesterday and was given to understand he would be invited to attend a conference with tariff commission experts on the cheese item.

The conference was held without him, but Smoot denied he promised or even understood Blaine wanted to attend.

Approval of Hoover

Arguing for adoption of the conference reports, Senator Watson asserted the bill as it now stand "very nearly approximates the desire expressed by the president to have a revision of the agricultural rates and for the benefit only of those industries which have been suffering because of foreign competition."

He disputed arguments that the measure represented a general revision, contending only thirty-four per cent of the thousands of named commodities had been given increased or reduced duties.

Several times there were cries of "vote" and at one time the senate was on the verge of a final roll call. No senator was on his feet to speak and Vice President Curtis put the question. The roll call was about to start when Senator Harrison, Democrat, Mississippi suggested the absence of a quorum and the tensity subsided.

Prison System Is Scored by Minister

Boston, June 10 (AP)—A suggestion that "it would have been a most useful thing if the governor of Ohio on his inauguration might have spent his first month as governor in the penitentiary at Columbus" was made by Rev. Charles N. Lathrop, D. D., of New York, secretary of the social service department of the Episcopal church, speaking at the National Social Service conference of the church in Boston today.

He deplored the prison "holocaust" in which hundreds died.

Discussing the problem of dealing with the penal systems of the country, Dr. Lathrop continued:

"It would be helpful if it were the obligation of every judge on the bench first to be an inmate of the penitentiary to which he sends his convicted felons. I wish we might have the judges dealing with criminal cases clapped into prison for a couple of weeks before they are qualified to take their places on the bench, that they might know intimately the conditions of our penal institutions, and our penal systems."

In the Headlines From Washington

The senate set Friday afternoon for a final vote on the tariff.

Organization of American negroes by communist forces was charged before the house investigation committee.

The senate finance committee approved the modified house bill to liberalize world war veterans' compensation.

The senate foreign relations committee prepared to assert in a resolution its rights to the London treaty papers withheld by the president.

KING CAROL II REVAMPS ARMY

New Chief of Rumania Makes Important Appointments

Bucharest, Rumania, June 10 (AP)—Reorganization of the army today was accomplished by King Carol II as the first important step in a program of stabilization of the affairs of Rumania.

The young king, who last week astonished the world by returning swiftly from affairs of the heart to those of his native land, today appointed Prince Nikolaus general inspector of the water and land air forces. He appointed Generals Averescu and Pressan field marshalls by a special act.

The newly elevated king spent virtually his whole day receiving members of the officers' corps of all branches of the service, who swore allegiance, and with matters bearing directly upon the formation of a new government.

Approach Helen

The urgency of the latter problem was made evident by the profound thought which Carol is giving the selection of a premier. The king hoped to have his government completed by tomorrow. This seemed, tonight, to be doubtful.

Delicate and tactful approaches were made again today to Princess Helen, Carol's divorced wife, for a reconcilation which she was told was the dearest wish of the people now that her husband had been restored to his rightful position. It was evident that some slightly more friendly attitude on the part of Princess Helen would be necessary before announcement of a reconcilation could be made officially.

In political circles it is generally presumed that Nikolaui Titulescu, the "mystery man" of Rumanian politics, who has held the balance of power among the various factions in Rumania since the end of the World war, had much to do with Carol's sudden decision to abandon the role of the prodigal.

Grand Rapids Has Population Gain

Grand Rapids, June 10 (AP)—Greater Grand Rapids has a population of 204,988, according to final figures announced today by George E. Fritz, census supervisor, and compiled unofficially for the metropolitan area.

This population compares with 148,212 in 1920, an increase of 32 per cent. Incorporated Grand Rapids has a population of 168,234, and the total for Kent county was set at 240,073, subject to revision upward.

Districts included in the metropolitan area of Grand Rapids are East Grand Rapids, and townships of Wyoming, Paris, Grand Rapids, Plainfield and Walker.

Damage by Toledo Fire Is $100,000

Toledo, Ohio., June 10 (AP)—Fire tonight in the Union Station at the foot of Knapp street resulted in damage estimated at between $75,000 and $100,000.

The ticket office, waiting room and dispatchers offices on the second and third floors in the tower directly over the main entrance were destroyed.

Heroic efforts of railroad employes and firemen saved the larger part of valuable records in the ticket office. A temporary office was set up in baggage cars.

Train schedules were for the most part maintained, dispatchers working from outlying towers.

Origin of the fire was not determined.

German Educator Called by Death

Heidelberg, Germany, June 10 (AP)—Dr. Adolph Von Harnack, widely known as leader of the modern German school of theology, died today at the age of 77. He had been ill for the past two weeks.

Dr. Von Harnack, who was one of the most noted of German theologians, was widely known both in Europe and the United States. He visited the United States in 1904 and lectured at various cities in the east and middlewest.

WANTS TO GET REVENGE FOR LINGLE DEATH

KILLING IS CALLED "CHALLENGE TO THE PRESS"

Chicago, June 10 (AP)—The press of Chicago tonight united in declaring a war to the finish on gangsters.

After posting rewards totalling $55,000 for apprehension of the slayer of Alfred "Jake" Lingle, Tribune reporter, the leading dailies called the killing a "challenge to the press," and editorally announced their acceptance.

"It Is War"

"It is war," The Tribune said. "There will be casualties, but that is to be expected, it being war. The Tribune has the support of all the other Chicago newspapers. . . . It is a common cause not only for the newspapers, but for all the citizens of Chicago."

The meaning, the paper said, is plain. "It was committed in reprisal," it declared, "and in attempt at intimidation. Mr. Lingle was a police reporter and an exceptionally well-informed one. What made him valuable to his newspaper marked him as dangerous to the killers.

"It was very foolish ever to think that assassination would be confined to the gangs which have fought each other for the profits of crime in Chicago. The immunity from punishment after gang murders would be assumed to cover the committing of others. Citizens who interfered with the criminals were no better protected than gunmen who fought each other for the revenue from liquor selling, coercion of labor and trade, brothel keeping and gambling."

Concluding, The Tribune said: "The challenge of crime to the community must be accepted. It has been given with bravado. It is accepted and we'll see what the consequences are to be. Justice will make a fight or it will abdicate."

Aroused to Wrath

Declaring the killing of Lingle will result in "the mantle of mystery being torn from the entire structure of Chicago's gangland, The Herald and Examiner said the city's citizens are at last aroused to a pitch of wrath where "all who shared the rich, illicit profits of the half world must share the punishment of exposure."

"In this murder," The Herald and Examiner asserted, "gangland attained the ultimate in ruthless slaughter and drew not only the wrath of the reputable element in Chicago but also the serious attention of the press throughout the United tSates."

"Public patience is at an end," the paper continued, and "public officials are vowed to end all faltering with crime."

"The cold-blooded murder of 'Jake' Lingle has all the appearance of an attempt of the gangsters to terrorize the newspapers," The Evening Post commented. "For that reason the Post yesterday announced that it would pay $5,000 for the arrest and conviction of Lingle's assassins.

"An attack on one newspaper is

Parties Making Alignments for Badger Primaries

Oshkosh, Wis., June 10 (AP)—A move that would greatly limit the issues between LaFollette-Progressives and Conservatives, in the forthcoming Republican primaries, was inaugurated today at the state convention of the Conservative wing of the party.

A. B. Fontaine, convention chairman, in the keynote address, attacked chain stores and chain banking, a stand that is known to have the concurrence of the LaFollette group.

Indications are that the platform to be drawn up later by the Conservatives, will contain a plank that would give the state licensing powers over such absentee owned companies.

Mrs. McCormick to Address GOP Women

Toledo, Ohio, June 10 (AP)—Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, Republican candidate for United States senator in Illinois, will address Toledo women Republicans here Thursday despite protests registered by members of the Toledo Women's Republican club.

Mrs. McCormick today so informed Mrs. William B. Guitteau, president of the local club, over the long distance telephone. She said her address would deal with the campaign issues in Illinois.

Detroit Cabarets Named Defendants In Padlock Suits

Detroit, June 10. (AP)—Six of Detroit's largest and best known cabarets tonight found themselves defendants in padlock proceedings instituted by the federal government.

Padlock petitions were filed in federal court today by Assistant District Attorney David A. Wolff against the following: The Oriole Terrace, the Club Lido, the Music Box, the Ambassador Club, Lugi's and the Kit Kat Club.

N. B. Miller, prohibition administrator for Michigan, said that actual liquor purchases were made in only two of the clubs. The basis for the action against the other four is the alleged serving of "set-ups" (cracked ice, ginger ale etc.) leading to the assumption by federal officers that the prohibition law was violated there.

The clubs where liquor is alleged to have been bought are Luigi's and the Ambassador Club.

Bankers Meeting At Grand Rapids

Grand Rapids, Mich., June 10 (AP)—Between 500 and 600 bankers gathered here today for the opening session of the forty-fourth annual convention of the Michigan Bankers' Association.

The convention opened with an address of welcome from William Alden Smith, former U. S. senator and chairman of the board of the Grand Rapids Savings Bank.

Other speakers on the opening program were Leman A. Cambrey, vice president and trust officer of the First National Bank and Trust company of Flint, and John C. Mechem, president of the trust company division of the American Bankers' Association and vice president of the First Union Trust and Savings Bank, Chicago.

In his opening address Mr. Smith offered what he said was a "friendly criticism" regarding the functioning of the federal reserve system. He said that the system "never was intended as a source of necessary revenue for the support of the government."

Inquest On Blast At Detroit Asked

Detroit, June 10 (AP)—Steps were taken today by James E. Chenot prosecuting attorney, to hold a coroner's inquest on the dynamite explosion which yesterday killed six workmen in the new waterworks tunnel beneath the Detroit river.

Chenot made his request for an inquest to Coroner Albert L. French after an investigation which started immediately after the explosion yesterday. The six workmen who were injured in the accident are expected to be able to leave the hospital next week to give testimony.

Four separate investigations were under way today. They were being made by the water board engineers, the police, the prosecutor's office and the department of public works.

Women Taking Place In Business World

Denver, Colo., June 10. (AP)—Women are emerging from an era of ultra domesticity and are taking a rightful place among intellectuals of the country, Otto Wiese, 25 year old editor of "McCalls Magazine" today told delegates to the convention here of the General Federation of Women's clubs.

"The taste of women," he said, "has improved reading matter immeasurably within the last ten years. To me the most interesting thing in the developments of the last decade has been the growth of womn's attitude toward the press.

"They have discarded what they considered unnecessary in the teachings of the past generations and accepted that which they consider sound in the philosophy of the present.

Coal Operators Seek Better Rates

Lansing, June 10. (AP)—Claiming the revision of rates would adversely affect Michigan industries, the state will oppose the petition of northern coal operators for more advantageous rates to lake ports as compared with those on shipments from southern fields, Wilber M. Brucker, attorney general, announced today. A hearing will be held before the interstate commerce commission in Washington June 16.

The Pennsylvania and other northern coal operators now have rates which permit them to place coal in lake ports, partly by rail and partly by water, much cheaper than shipments can be made from the Virginia and Kentucky fields. Michigan industries largely use southern coal.

APPOINTED BY GREEN.

Lansing, June 10. (AP)—Governor Green today named Sister Mary Carmelita Manning, of the St. Joseph hospital at Pontiac and formerly of Ann Arbor, to the state board for the registration of nurses to succeed Sister Mary Giovanni Gannon, of Ann Arbor, who died last week. Her term expires Dec. 31, 1932.

PLANE TAXIS

Berlin—A cheap airplane-taxi service is in effect in Germany. Single-engined machines are used and the charge is about 25 cents a mile, regardless of the number of passengers carried. These air-taxis will serve as transports to any place on the Continent.

Stockholm Exhibition Shows New Frills In Construction of Home

BY HERMAN G. NELSON

Stockholm, Sweden—The home is usually the last conservative stronghold to be invaded by modernism. The interior plan of an average home has not changed much in a century. Labor-saving devices have been introduced in American homes, but as yet the home has retained its former appearance.

Sweden has progressed so far along modern pathways that it stands on the threshold of a break with the past when it comes to home architecture and home culture. Modernism has invaded the Swedish home and wrought a complete change in the home's make-up. The new epoch in Sweden will have its national beginning in the Stockholm exhibition of 1930, which opened May 16.

Architects of the old school paid all their attention to the walls and exterior appearance of the house. The new architect builds his house from within. A home must be functionalistic, according to the new idea along which lines the Stockholm exhibition has been created. A house is a place in which to live and it must therefore be adapted to the modern family.

Old-fashioned furniture, needless to say, is out of place in the modern home. Furniture must function as machines for sitting and lying. It must not be clumsy or difficult to move about. Much of the new furniture is made of steel tubing. If a piece of furniture can serve more than one purpose, the more functionalistic, i. e. useful, it is. Beauty, according to the new idea or art, is synonymous with usefulness and adaptation to the purpose for which created.

Kitchen Made Smaller

The modern housewife no longer bakes at home nor does she do her own washing. Most of the family's meals are consumed away from the home. The old-fashioned kitchen used to be one of the largest rooms in the house. In the modern home it has become the size of the former pantry. The housewife can stand in any part of her kitchen and have within reach every object in the room.

The housewife formerly spent most of her day in the kitchen. The new kitchen is designed as a place to cook food and not to be used for any other purpose. A glass wall separates the kitchen from the dining room and permits the kitchen to be located in the interior of the house.

Separate bedrooms for every member of the family, even for husband and wife, are provided in the modern home. The bedrooms are small, but there is no reason for making them large when they are to be used only for sleping roms. Beds are no longer beds; they are sofas which at night can be converted into beds.

The living room was formerly only opened for use when company came to a home. The modern living room is the center of the home. Here, every convenience is provided. Chairs and sofas are low and comfortable. A person is actually forced to relax and rest in one of these new "machines." One cannot help it. The old-fashioned straight-back, high-legged chairs forced one to sit prim and stiff and unrelaxed.

The modern home is not supposed to litter its walls with pictures. One, or at most two, is sufficient, and these should be hung low on the walls, so that the center of the picture is even with the eyes of the average-size person. Chairs, tables, sofas, and pictures must come closer to the floor in the new home.

The living room always faces the sunny side of the house and its outside wall is of glass, nearly from top to bottom. Apartment buildings are provided with a common gymnasium on the top floor.

Changes in Apartments

The new idea in apartments is to have the rooms located on two floors instead of on one. The living room, dining room and kitchen are on the lower floor while the bedrooms are on a floor above. The living room, according to the most modern plan, is two stories high with a balcony all around it.

Many of the home culture ideas incorporated in the Stockholm exhibition have been adopted from America. It is safe to say, however, that the new ideas have made greater headway and have won wider acceptance in Stockholm than in American cities. Just a few ideas mentioned as being common-place in the stockholm exhibition indicates that a radical change is taking place in the modern Sweden.

The architecture used for the new homes and for the buildings of the stockholm exhibition is adopted from the international style first advocated by de Corbusier in France. It is known as functionalistic and has found wide favor in European cities.

Eric Gunnar Asplund is the Stockholm exhibition architect and the chief exponent of functionalism in Sweden. He has for three or four years, together with other young Swedish architects, advocated a reform in home designing and architecture, but only now has he actually converted stockholm to his way of thinking. It remains to be seen if the rest of Sweden will be captivated during the summer months when rural Sweden comes to the capital on sight-seeing tours. Just how this more conservative element will react is hard to say, but if it accepts functionalism with the same favor as has Stockholm, then the exhibition will mark the beginning of a new period in the nation's life and cultural history.

The Stockholm exhibition shows how artistic, practical and labor-saving articles can be afforded by the modest and average home. The principal aim of the exhibit is to show Sweden's contribution toward making the average home attractive and artistic. This it has succeeded in doing and the Stockholm exhibition has the biggest display of handiwork and textiles ever shown in Sweden.

The opening day, May 16, attracted 78,652 persons. King Gustaf V and Crown Prince Gustaf Adolf opened the exhibition with speeches to the assembled mass of people. "We should not rest on the laurels we have already won," the King declared. The Crown Prince struck the keynote of the exhibition when he said its main purpose was to stimulate thought and discussion.

Negroes Sing As Death Day Nears

Eddyville, Ky., June 10. (AP)—Four negro voices joined in "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot," and after a pause into another negro spiritual, "The Evil One," in the death cells at Western State penitentiary here today. The plaintive notes rose clear and strong above the whirr of motors as electricians tested the electric chair that will send the singers and Ballard T. Ratcliffe, a white man, to death early Friday morning.

The four negroes apparently resigned to their fate to die as murderers, all have natural voices for the music they love. They occupy cells directly across from the room into which they and Ratcliffe will march shortly after midnight Friday morning. Richard Edmonds, 36, is the only one of the four who admits his guilt. All were convicted of murders in Louisville. Lloyd Williams, 24; John Keller, 27, and James Grigsby, 38, are the other three.

VOLCANO FLARES.

Tokyo, June 11. (AP)—(Wednesday)—Asama Volcano, near Karuizawa, 90 miles northwest of Tokyo, violently erupted at 8:15 a. m. today. Previously the entire mountain was enveloped in dense black smoke. There were no reports of serious damage or casualties but the fate of a few climbers on the mountain was uncertain.

SIMMONS WAS NOT PUNISHED BY HIS PARTY

a substantial portion of the Democratic vote but here again would be a test of regularity based on conviction rather than personal ambition and Mr. Simmons has indicated that he will not run as an independent.

Sort of Punishment.

During the campaign Mr. Simmons pointed to his own record of regularity and the general belief has been that he would not run as an independent if defeated for the nomination but the Republicans evidently believe someone may be put into the race as an independent to corral the Simmons vote and that the veteran senator from North Carolina may by his passive attitude help such a candidate.

There was undoubtedly an element of punishment involved in the viewpoint of many Democratic voters in North Carolina's primary and during 1928 this correspondent after a visit to North Carolina stated that Senator Simmons' attitude toward the Democratic nominee for the presidency might cost him his seat in the senate as it was not possible to separate Democratic support of a presidential nominee from the congressional and state tickets without breaking down the whole party organization and giving the Republicans the benefit of the split. The bolt of the South in 1928 may therefore be regarded as related entirely to the Smith candidacy and not to any upheaval in party alignments.

Lighthall to Move To Green Bay, Wis.

Marshall B. Lighthall, Chicago and North Western railway claim agent, and family will move about June 25 to Green Bay, where Mr. Lighthall will have his permanent offices in the future.

Mr. Lighthall came from the Chicago claims office of the company to Escanaba three years ago to succeed the late A. C. Donlevy. In April, Mr. Lighthall's territory was enlarged to include both the Peninsula and Lake Shore divisions of the railway, and consequently it is more advantageous for him to locate at Green Bay, which is a more centralized point.

Closing Applied to Bayous for Anglers

Lansing.—Bayous along Michigan's rivers have been added to waters closed to fishing until June 25th, when the season will open on bass and bluegills.

An opinion received by the Department of Conservation from the Attorney General's office rules these bayous as inland lakes and consequently subject to the same regulations as inland lakes. All inland lakes, not specificaly designated as "pike" or "trout" lakes, are closed to all fishing until June 25th.

Australia is estimated to contain about 3,374,000 horsepower in its water courses, of which less than one-fifth is utilized.

Southern Cross Set For Atlantic Trip

Dublin, Irish Free State, June 10. (AP)—Captain Charles Kingford Smith, Australian aviator, and his three companions feel certain that they will be able to take off for the United States in the airplane Southern Cross at least by the latter part of the week.

The flyers had hoped to start tomorrow morning but the weather forecast, showing bad conditions over the Atlantic, necessitated another postponement.

Fuel was taken aboard today to prevent any delay. The flight will be made at an altitude of 2,000 feet as much as possible.

It is understood that Kingsford-Smith will receive about $50,000 from accessory firms in case the flight is successful. His partners have been promised $5,000 each.

an attack on all. In large measure, the hope of the community for effective warfare against its enemies lies in the possession of courageous and outspoken newspapers. Chicago has such a press and the present occasion seems to us one on which it should demonstrate that it is united."

The Daily News said: "Gangland today has roused against it every agency of law-abiding citizenry—civic organizations as well as governmental authorities."

$55,000 Reward

Speaking in behalf of The Evening American, Managing Editor James Bickett stated: "We will join whole-heartedly with other Chicago newspapers in the campaign to put a stop to gang depradations."

Increase of the reward total to $55,000 came with the announcement of a $25,000 offer by The Herald and Examiner tonight. The Tribune had offered $25,000 immediately after the slaying and The Post followed with $5,000 more.

SEARCH FOR CLUES

Chicago, June 10 (AP)—A silk glove for the left hand and a short-barreled revolver from which the serial number had been cut away, tonight were the only tangible clues on which authorities pinned hopes for the capture of the man who yesterday shot down Alfred "Jake" Lingle, Chicago Tribune reporter, in a crowded pedestrian subway leading to the Illinois Central suburban station at Randolf street near the public library.

Pat Roche, chief investigator for the state's attorney, had his squad scouring the city for a left-handed ex-convict, saying the man was known to the police as a killer.

The glove was found near the scene of the murder and was presumed to have been used by the assassin to prevent finger prints on the weapon, with which he fired a bullet into the back of Lingle's head. The slayer cast the pistol aside as he darted to his escape through throngs of people in the subway and Michigan avenue.

Investigator Roche said he learned Lingle lunched at the Sherman hotel, a few blocks from the Illinois Central interurban station, and that he was joined by two men as he walked toward the station to take a train to the races. In the subway leading to the station, witnesses said, one of the men dropped back at a newspaper stand and then crept up and fired at the back of Lingle's head.

An inquest into the slaying was opened and indefinitely postponed after a few witnesses had been heard. Coroner Herman W. Burdeson said he was in possession of evidence which he was not willing should be revealed at this time.

$25 Reward Offered In Gravel Pit Case

Information is sought by the sheriff's department at Escanaba regarding the identity of boys who deliberately damaged a clam-shell gravel loader used by the E. & L. S. railroad at their pit between Groos and the county infirmary property, and a reward of $25 has been posted for tips which will lead to the apprehension of the guilty parties.

Local officers sent to investigate the vandalism found a hole cut in the cab of the loader, with grease smeared over the doors and outside portion, and machinery disconnected in various places. It is surmised that the offense was committed sometime during the last spring or winter.

DOODLE-BUG IS STILL IN USE

Device Lifts Thousands From Pockets of Oil Men in Michigan

Lansing.—The "doodle - bug" has cut thousands of dollars from the pockets of oil men, and despite its presence little has ever been done to halt its activities, and it continues to thrive and prosper.

The "doodle-bug" is not an insect it is a mechanism—a mechanism that presumes to find oil buried beneath the surface of the ground.

There are many varieties of the species Doodle-Bug, according to the Geological Survey Division of the Department of Conservation. There is the divining-rod variety; a bug composed of a forked stick like the old water well finding rod; there is the magnetic bug, a mechanism through which oil is sought beneath the surface through a mixture of magnetic or supposedly magnetic substances. There are as many varieties of bugs as there are men who operate them, it was said.

Game of Chance

Many serious minded men, interested in the discovery of oil do not consider the practicability of the situation and too often expend large sums in what is nothing more than chance, the Geology Division said.

There are many doodle-bug operators in Michigan. They solicit those interested in oil to prospect with the "bug." Occasionally, as in all things of chance, a well is found, but practically always a well drilled at great cost comes in dry.

"Some doodle-bug operators are experienced in the oil business and know likely oil bearing areas, but the doodle-bug is nothing more than a charm such as is used by the voo-doo doctor, and no more reliance should be placed in its powers," according to R. A. Smith, State Geologist.

Build Septic Tank At Schafer Today

The first of two farm septic tanks to be built in Delta county as demonstration projects was constructed at South Bark River Tuesday, and another will be built today at the parsonage, Schafer.

Delta county farmers will have the opportunity of getting the latest information on the best ways to mix and use concrete in farm construction from specially trained engineers who will be present at the meeting.

Recent experiments have shown that the proportion of water to cement in the mixture is one of the determining factors in the strength of the concrete. The proper ratios of cement and water vary with the size of the sand and gravel used in the mix but the proper ratio for each size can be determined by simple tests.

These tests and others which show how to determine the worth of the sand and gravel will be explained at the meeting by the engineers. The tests can be made by anyone who has seen them performed, and the use of the tests will eliminate many unsatisfactory jobs of cement work.

When In Swimming, Use a Bathing Suit

Nature's bathing suit is not enough when taking a dip near bridges or highways.

The Delta county sheriff's department has learned that boys are again yielding to the seasonal lure of the streams, but in doing so some are using only their birthday clothes for a bathing suit, and are neglecting to don the customary apparel for the occasion. Warning has been issued by local officers, calling attention to the fact that bathing in public streams without some kind of a bathing suit is forbidden by law.

AMUSEMENTS

AT THE DELFT

In the light of past performances, "Hold Everything," the Warner Bros. and Vitaphone production now showing at the Delft Theatre, was expected to be the hilariously funny comedy it is. For many of the staff which contributed its talents to the successful "Gold Diggers of Broadway," voted by 350 newspaper critics one of the ten best pictures of the past year, were reunited by Warner Bros. for their version of "Hold Everything."

Foremost among these is Winnie Lightner, the uproarious comedienne of the previous picture, who appears as the leading feminine name in the new filmization of the play by B. G. De Sylva and John McGowan, and Joe E. Brown, who plays the leading role opposite Miss Lightner. Robert Lord receives script writer's credit for both pictures and Roy Del Ruth takes a double bow as director.

Although much of the music of the original "Hold Everything" has been retained in the picture, a group of six songs have been added to the score. These are the work of Al Dubin and Joe Burke, the concocters of "Tiptoe Through the Tulips" and "Painting the Clouds With Sunshine" from "Gold Diggers of Broadway." The dance presentations for both pictures were devised by Larry Ceballos.

Like its predecessor, "Hold Everything" is photographed throughout in Technicolor and also similarly has something more than the usual thin musical comedy plot for a story.

In addition to the talent reassembled from "Gold Diggers of Broadway," Hold Everything" is notable for the presence of such players as Georges Carpentier, Sally O'Neil, Edmund Breese, Bert Roach, Dorothy Revier, Jack Curtis, Tony Stabinau and others.

Girls Are Helping Men Fighting Fires

Lansing.— Girls have taken their place with men and boys as forest fire fighters.

The suppression of a fire that might have caused great damage near the Brimley State Park in Chippewa County, resulted from the fact that a group of Girl Scouts from the Brimley High School fought it with sand and water and prevented it from gaining ground, while one of their number went three miles to summon a forest fire warden.

It is believed that the quick action of the girls saved several nearby summer cottages from destruction.

EDITORIAL

DRUNKEN DRIVERS

THE sheriff's department is asking the general public to cooperate in its efforts to rid the highways of drunken drivers by reporting any motorists who are seen in an intoxicated condition.

In this traffic safety movement, the authorities deserve the whole-hearted support of every good citizen. No doubt if a check-up were made of the causes of traffic accidents occurring in this county it would be found that drunkenness, either in mild or vilent form, is accountable for the greatest percentage.

Many folks probably will have some hesitancy to report these traffic law violators, feeling that in so doing they will be placed in the class of "squealers." One shouldn't feel that way. A drunken driver is a potential murderer. When he goes out on the highway all "likkered up," he drives at breakneck speed without any regard for human life.

If you cannot get the drunken driver's name, try to catch the number on the license plate and report the case at once to the sheriff's department. You will be performing one of your important duties of citizenship.

The Escanaba Daily Press will back the officers to the limit in any anti-drunken driver campaign. And names of drunken drivers positively will not be kept out of the paper.

GANGS BREAK LOOSE

APPARENTLY that peace pact which the Chicago gangs fixed up a month or so ago didn't have enough teeth in it. Maybe it failed because underworld psychology isn't quite ready for a superstate yet, and maybe the boys just naturally didn't take it seriously; at an rate, the machine guns are swinging again, and the casualty list is resuming the proportions of the good old days.

So ends Chicago's breathing space, amid a clatter of fire-arms. Dead bodies are being found beside lonely roads once more, and firing squads are on the prowl again; the police are finding "known gangsters" immersed in their own gore, and this, that or the other gang is getting the credit, or otherwise, for this, that or the other murder.

All in all, the city at the foot of Lake Michigan seems to have slipped back to normal; and people who like to be driven to alarm by these violent outbursts on the part of our urban civilization have at hand the material for a new fit of the heebee-jeebies.

We're pretty well used to our big-city gangs now, and they don't worry or shock us as they used to; nevertheless, there's one bit of foggy thinking that these killings usually bring out, and we might as well take the time to get straight on it.

This particular bit of irrationality is a reflection that generally runs something like this: after all, it is only the gangsters that get killed. Each of these outbursts simply removes from circulation a citizen whom we can very well do without. Why get worried? Isn't it, in the long run, to society's interest to have these yeggs put one another out of the way?

On the surface, that looks reasonable. But it isn't the whole story.

Every gangland killing simply entrenches the gangs more firmly in power. Every time one group of cut-throats machine guns a rival group, it merely convinces every member of the underworld that he and his kind are beyond the reach of organized society as represented by the police and the courts. Every underworld murder establishes the chiefs of gangland, more securely than before, as a law unto themselves.

For those reasons it is impossible for society to derive any satisfaction out of this string of murders.

These killings are nothing but the gangsters' way of making sure that they can continue to prey on society unmolested. There is a new recruit to take the place of every hoodlum that gets bumped off. When we try to tell ourselves that we needn't be alarmed because one more beer-runner has been shot to death we are just kidding ourselves—in a very dangerous way.

GLORY OF TEXAS

REPRESENTATIVE GARNER'S proposal to carve Texas into five new states has a good deal to be said for it, on strictly practical grounds, and doubtless has even more potent arguments from certain political standpoints; but for purely sentimental reasons we hope that nothing comes of it.

Texas, after all, is in a class by itself. Its sheer bigness makes it a unique state. Texans have always gloried in it, and the rest of the country can glory in it likewise. When you talk about Texas you can toss "biggest," "largest," "greatest" and other superlatives around in carefree fashion. All of which is very stimulating, for some reason or other.

But suppose this tremendous state is sliced asunder to make five new states. Where would our superlatives go then? Why, right out of the window, of course. The prospect is desolating. We need one state of Gargantuan proportions; need it for the sake of our national self-esteem.

MEETING A PROBLEM

SOMETIMES when a business organization suffers from overproduction it calls on the government for relief. Sometimes, however, it tightens its belt and sets out to help itself.

A writer in the current issue of World's Work tells how the California fruit growers recently found themselves with more fruit than they could market profitably. Instead of howling about bad times, they promptly sent trade scouts to South America to develop better export markets. The scouts were enthusiastically received. It developed that since the seasons are reversed California's fruit crop comes on the market just when the South American crop is off.

Now a trade conference is scheduled for August, with every indication that the Californians, by their energetic and intelligent handling of the situation, are going to find a good way out of the problem that beset them.

WHAT AVIATION NEEDS

A COUPLE of years ago leaders in the aviation industry were talking eagerly of the day when airplanes would be as comman as autos; the day when the average citizen would own his own plane and would gad about the country in it, for business or pleasure, as nonchalantly as he now does in his auto.

Now it is becoming apparent that that days is a good deal farther off than was then supposed. William B. Stout, famous Detroit airplane manufacturer, contends that it is the fault of the industry, which has failed to improve the design of the plane so that the ordinary man can operate it.

"Things are going to be different," says Mr. Stout. "We are going to fix it so that a man can take a couple of lessons on Friday and fly his plane home on Monday."

Mr. Stout has exactly the right idea. When planes become that simple, aviation as an industry will boom just as the auto industry boomed. But it won't until that day actually arrives.

Girl Scouts have adopted a pleasant gray-green for their standard costume instead of the dismal brown. Next thing you know they'll be putting a little style in their hats.

The Boy Scout motto, to do a good turn, is not such a bad slogan for the motorist to keep in mind rounding the coners.

Probably the best gag on Broadway concerns the manager of the New York hosiery firm who was found after a robbery with his mouth crammed full of silk stockings.

A proposal has been made in London that publishers make their books waterproof for bathtub reading. As though the stuff we get nowadays isn't dry enough as it is.

Judging from the effect some recent novels have had on us, it would seem tub readers would do well to take extra precautions against drowning from sleepiness.

Paul Hampden, son of the noted actor, is working in an automobile factory in Flint, Mich. Even taking automobile parts is great training for the stage these days.

Anniversary

WARREN'S BIRTH

On June 11, 1741, Joseph Warren, noted American patriot, was born at Roxbury, Mass.

He graduated from Harvard in 1759, and five years later became a physician in Boston. When disputes first arose between the colonists and the British government Warren associated himself with Samuel Adams and other ardent Whigs. He was the orator at the second anniversary of the Boston Massacre, March 5, 1772, and again at the third anniversary, refusing to be intimidated by the threats of the British officers.

Warren had much to do with the success at Lexington on April 19, and in June was commissioned major general. He opposed the occupation of Charlestown Heights on the grounds that the American supply of ammunition was too small. Overruled by a majority of the council, which resolved to fortify Bunker Hill, he went there as a volunteer, refusing to take chief command. He was killed during the battle of Bunker Hill June 17.

LYRICS OF LIFE

By Douglas Malloch

Copyright 1930 by Douglas Malloch

WHEN THEY GO AWAY

We kiss them when they go away,
We love them when they leave us;
But, if we do not day to day,
Why should departure grieve us?
For surely if we loved a wife,
A husband, or a mother,
We'd love them every day of life,
Not one, and not another.

We clasp them to our bosoms when
The puffing train is starting.
If loving is so easy then,
When someone is departing,
Why can't we love them when they're here,
Where cowds have never seen us,
Or are our dear ones only dear
When distance lies between us?

Perhaps we leave them all the while
But only now betray it.
Oh, how the face we love would smile
If now and then we'd say it!
Why must we wait till absence parts
To tell it and to show it?—
Alas, how many lonely hearts
Are loved, and never know it.

CHAPTER XLVII

"Geoffrey Norman!" Phillipa fairly squealed his name in her surprise and unexpected pleasure. "When did you get back?"

"Not long ago," Geoffrey told her.

"But how did you know where to find me? Have you seen Alan?"

Geoffrey permitted her first question to answer itself when he said: "Yes, I've seen Alan. Just had a minute with him in his office."

"Did he tell you?" Phillipa went on. Then he laughed. "I suppose you've called me up to wish me happiness?"

"Why, Alan didn't tell me anything," Geoffrey answered truthfully. "Have you inherited a fortune or something like that?"

"Oh." Phillipa was rather taken back, but she instantly became gay again with the thought that Geoffrey had called her, then, simply because he wanted to. Not knowing she was engaged to Alan, he naturally thought it all right.

"I'm coming down town," she cried excitedly. "I'd like to see you."

"Well, I'm awfully sorry," Geoffrey said regretfully, "because I want to see you, too. But I've got a lot of important engagements for the rest of the day. I called up to see if you wouldn't come to a little party at my place tonight?"

Phillipa hesitated, but she was thinking hard and fast. Geoffrey's invitation presented an opportunity to show Alan she wasn't tied hand and foot to the life he was laying out for her. Let him stay away from dinner—and come up just to see Bobby!

"I'd be delighted," she said at last. "Do you mean your apartment on Park Avenue?"

"Know the address?"

"Of course. Haven't I mailed you bushels and bushels of bonds?"

"Would you mind coming early? This isn't a fashionable party at all."

"I'll have dinner in town and come up about eight-thirty. O. K.?"

"Right. It's awfully kind of you."

Phillipa smiled frequently to herself on the way to the station, to take a train to New York. Geoffey had been a bit stiff, but that was his way, she thought. "And his tip not to dress—thoughtful lad."

Thoughtful—and oh so rich! As good looking as Alan, too, in his way. If she had the chance to choose between them . . . . . "Well, he hasn't forgotten me!" She smiled like a puss in cream.

Alan, and his orphan kid! Going to adopt him. And she could like it or lump it. But who could say? Perhaps she wouldn't have to lump it.

She shopped with a high heart, buying herself a new and dressier blouse of eggshell crepe to wear with her smart blue suit. Kid gloves, a new hat and bag, even stockings. She could change after dinner—she would go to a hotel—before appearing at Geoffrey's apartment.

She remembered it well—that apartment. She went there once on an errand. She needn't have gone—she could have sent a boy just as well, but she wanted to see the place. And she never forgot it.

Astonishingly vast, and furnished with the magnificence of a Roman palace. Its impressiveness had remained in Phillipa's mind as a background against which she compared all other home interiors. No other that she had seen had measured up to it.

It had been quiet, and filled with subdued light when she first saw it. But tonight, she thought, there would be soft radiance flooding it, many flowers, and the haunting sweetness of waltzes.

Geoffrey was like that—he never gave a jazz party, Phillipa told herself, as she was whirled upward in the bronze elevator to the roof—for the Normans occupied the penthouse apartment, with a number of rooms on the top floor.

Phillipa had never seen the room to which she was shown by the man servant whom she knew to be Geoffrey's own personal factotum—valet, courier, cook, "anything you want," as Geoffrey said.

She had a glimpse of the main hall, and found it surprisingly darkened. Then she was led up a short flight of hand-carved stairs to Geoffrey's "wing."

There he received her in a small living room that was just like himself—restrained, attractive.

"This looks like a very exclusive party," she said, smiling at him to show that it might be just they two and she'd be complacent.

"We'll be joined shortly by a third member of the party," Geoffrey said. "I think I hear him

Health Tips

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

The liver is the great chemical factory of the body. When food is eaten and changed in the stomach and intestines, the material passes by way of the blood to the liver, and there is converted into other substances according to the needs of the body.

In the liver, the glucose brought by the blood is changed into a substance called glycogen, and stored until it is needed by various tissues. The liver cells also act on proteins and fats as well as on carbohydrates. In the liver bile is formed and passed to the gallbladder and back to the intestines, from which it goes out of the body. Bile represents the product of th breaking down of red blood cells and, in addition, has other functions.

The average human being will develop and pour out from a pint to a quart and a half of bile in a day. In animals, it has been shown that a meat diet favors an abundant flow of bile, while a diet rich in carbohydrates, especially sugar, lessens the flow. The bile which passes into the gallbladder and then back into the intestines assists in digesting and absorbing fats.

It seems to control to some extent the regulation of the removal of putrefied material from the intestines. It carries away poisonous waste products and the salts of the bile seem to act themselves to stimulate the further formation and flow of bile.

Obviously, perfect functioning of the liver and gallbladder is necessary for perfect health. In exhaustion, in poisoning of various types, in injury to the liver, important changes occur in all of the tissues of the body, tending toward degeneration and death.

In order to determine whether or not the liver and the gallbladder are taking care of their functions properly, numerous tests have been devised by the medical profession. It is possible to examine the blood and to find out if the blood contains the materials which should be developed in the liver and in the gallbladder.

It is possible to feel a normal gallbladder under the edge of the ribs on the right side, to inject a dye substance which localizes in the gallbladder and which makes the gallbladder visible when the X-ray is used, to put a tube down into the stomach and then into the small intestine and thus to withdraw the bile.

In the presence of jaundice, it is necessary to know to what extent the bile and the liver are responsible, whether or not the condition is to be controlled by medical measures or by surgical measures. Fifty years ago practically all that could be done by the physician was to find out what he could from the history of the case. By the aid of modern chemistry and physiology, the modern physician is able to have an adequate understanding of the ability with which various organs are doing their w

PLAY PROGRAM NEEDED IN CITY

Harold Gessner Outlines Benefits of Supervised Recreation

"Escanaba should have a definite community recreational program for boys, girls, young men and old men—for everybody," said Harold Gessner in a talk given before the Escanaba Rotary club at the Delta hotel. Mr. Gessner spoke on the needs for directed public athletics in the city. He pointed out the present limited facilities for play within the city limits and predicted that the problem would become serious to greater degree if some provision were not made at once for playgrounds and athletic fields for the young people of the city.

Recreational Problems

He briefly sketched the recreational problems in larger universities and in the larger cities and showed some of the efforts that were being made to solve them. He pointed out the difficulties certain cities were faced with at present because they lacked the foresight to designate certain districts as playgrounds or parks years ago. Nevertheless, with all the difficulties the cities are providing more opportunity for young people to learn and play games than their country cousins in proportion to population.

He used as a comparison a typical afternoon spent with a 13-year-old boy in Chicago in the pursuit of tennis, golf, swimming, boxing and handball, all at no cost. He showed the advantage the city boy has in coaching and training that enables him to learn games correctly with the proper form. He compared the attitude of European countries toward sports to the American idea. He showed how more people in Europe were interested in playing a game rather than watching it played as contrasted to the lazier attitude in this country. This, he explained, was due to the emphasis being put on form and enjoyment of the game rather than on winning as is the case in this country.

Proper Facilities Needed

"To give children a decent grounding in sports they must have the proper place to play their games, the proper coaching and instruction, and the right inspiration. If you do that they will make better men and women and they will lead happier and cleaner lives. We can do just that for the young people of Escanaba. First by providing a place, secondly by providing a program of athletics for everyone, and thirdly by having someone in charge—a recreational director."

"He urged the Rotary club to take an active part in making this plan possible. He showed that the city wanted such a move by their interest in the kitten ball league in the face of difficulties such as the failure of daylight saving time to pass. Mr. Gessner concluded his talk with an appeal to the club not to table the idea but to strike out in the right direction.

Other Speakers

Unusual interest in the talk was manifested by the impromptu speeches by members immediately following the speaker. Mr. Slater told very forcibly his disappointment in the failure of the daylight time law to pass. He also spoke of the emphasis manufacturers and larger companies put on athletics for their employees. He was followed by Dr. Kitchen who spoke of his efforts on behalf of hockey for the city and hoped that better results would be met with in this new movement if there was to be one. Charles Gessner, who had been interested in the boys' recreational movement in the city five years ago, expressed some strong views on polictics and their effects on movements of this kind.

Hit-and-run Car Search Continued

Another possible clue in the search for the automobile which ran down a motorcycle driven by Earl Owen, 920 Second avenue north, and caused injuries which resulted in the amputation of the young man's leg, was followed up by the Delta county sheriff's department this week. After an investigation, however, it was found that the car suspected had been damaged in a collision and was not at the scene of the mishap near Harris.

Owen was accompanied by Waldo Chase who was less seriously hurt. Two men in the car which struck the young men came back while the boys were in the ditch calling for help, but turned and ran as soon as they saw the seriousness of the accident, driving away hurriedly in their car. The circumstances of the accident, as reconstructed by officers, indicated that the hit-and-run car must have received a badly damaged left front fender, and garage men throughout the district have been asked to report any cars they notice with the left front portion bent or damaged.

SEWAGE TANK AT SCHAFFER

One Built at Peterson Farm; Another Today at Parsonage

Twenty-five persons availed themselves of the opportunity to see a septic tank installed at the Peterson farm, three miles south of Bark River, yesterday.

Another tank will be built at the Catholic church parsonage at Schaffer today by A. J. Bell, agricultural engineer of Michigan State college, and assistants.

The septic tank is a safe, sanitary means of farm sewage disposal. It differs from the old-fashioned cesspool in that it discharges the sewage close to the surface of the ground where air, sunlight and bacteria act on it, breaking down any disease germs that might be in it.

The cesspool, being several feet in the ground, discharges the sewage so deep down in the soil that it is impossible for the bacteria to live. If the sewage carrying disease germs from the cesspool should enter the water, it makes a dangerous condition for the users of this water, while from a septic tank there is very little, if any, danger.

Many epidemics of typhoid fever and other diseases are started by sewage seeping into the water supply. Experiments by the Michigan State college show that sewage will travel over sixty feet in sandy soil and 150 feet in clay. Under these conditions, the only safe, sanitary sewage disposal should be considered.

The cost of a septic tank large enough to take care of the sewage from the laundry, bathroom and kitchen costs approximately forty dollars.

FOG DEVICE

London—H. A. Lloyd has perfected an invention which it is claimed will do away with the hazard of driving in foggy weather. It consists of a pipe protruding from in front and under an automobile from which hot air is expelled. The air stream lifts the fog, leaving clear visibility for at least a car's length in front of the radiator.

Scaffold Breaks One Man Injured

While a crew of men were repairing at the local filtering plant Saturday a scaffold broke and several men were thrown to the floor. All of them escaped injury with the exception of Joseph Peterson who was caught between the concrete wall and scaffold. He sustained a badly crushed right hand and is wearing the injured member in a sling.

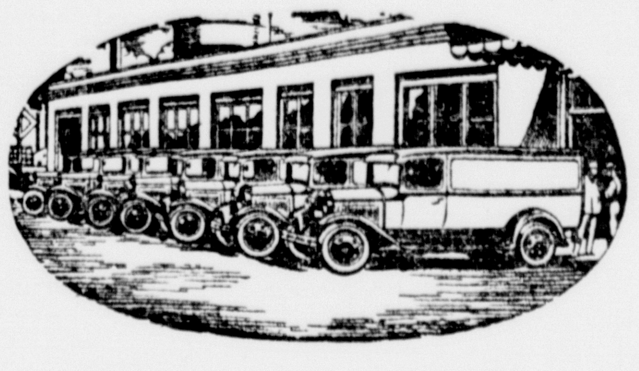
SERVING MANY BUSINESSES

Experience of large fleet owners reveals the unusual reliability and economy of the new Ford



A SIGNIFICANT TRIBUTE to the value of the new Ford is found in its increasing use by Federal, state and city governments and by large industrial companies which keep careful day-by-day cost records. In most instances, the Ford has been chosen only after exhaustive tests of every factor that contributes to good performance—speed, power, safety, comfort, low cost of operation and up-keep, reliability and long life.

Prominent among the companies using the Ford are the Associated Companies of the Bell System, Armour and Company, The Borden Company, Continental Baking Corporation, Firestone Tire and Rubber Company, General Electric Company, Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, Kellogg Company, Knickerbocker Ice Company, Morton Salt Company, Pillsbury Flour Mills Company, The Procter & Gamble Company, and Swift & Company.

Each of these companies uses a large number of Ford cars and trucks. The Associated Companies of the Bell System use more than eight thousand.

Modern business moves at a fast pace and it needs the Ford. Daily, in countless ways and places, it helps to speed the production and delivery of the world's goods and extend the useful service of men and companies.

Constant, steady operation over many thousands of miles emphasizes the advantages of the sound design of the Ford car, its high quality of materials, and accuracy in manufacturing. Beneath its graceful lines and beautiful colors there is a high degree of mechanical excellence.

An example of the value built into the Ford is the use of more than twenty ball and roller bearings. They are hidden within the car and you may never see them. Yet they play an important part in satisfactory, economical performance. Their function is similar to the jewels of a fine watch.

Throughout the Ford chassis, a ball or roller bearing is used at every place where it is needed to reduce friction and wear and give smooth, reliable mechanical operation.

At many points, as on the transmission counter-shaft, clutch release, fan and pump shaft, and front drive shaft, these ball and roller bearings are used where less costly types of bearings might be considered adequate.

Additional instances of the high quality built into the Ford are the extensive use of steel forgings, fully enclosed four-wheel brakes, Rustless Steel, four Houdaille double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers, aluminum pistons, chrome silicon alloy valves, torque-tube drive, three-quarter floating rear axle, and the Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield.

The Ford policy has always been to use the best possible material for each part and then, through large production, give it to the public at low cost.

Blanks may be secured by making application to the State Department of Agriculture, Bureau of Animal Industry, Lansing, Michigan.

In order to facilitate the work of the State Department and to relieve the exhibitor from embarrassment, these blanks should be forwarded to the Director of Live Stock, together with the entry of the animals in question. Pageant Episode To be Devoted to Vocational Work

Vocational work of all kinds will be the branch of school activity to be shown in the fifth of the nine episodes which will make up the gigantic all-school pageant to be presented at the Upper Peninsula state fair grounds Friday, June 13. This episode will be divided into two parts, the first showing the work done by the commercial and home economics departments, and the second portraying the activities of the manual arts section.

The first division will be in charge of the Misses Kennelly, Jackson and Martinson of the high school faculty, while the manual arts scene will be in charge of the Messrs. R. C. and L. J. Shaw, E. E. Edick, G. H. Grab and E. J. Nicholas.

The first scene will show a business office in which the following characters will be working:

Office Manager—Willard Norby.

Filing Clerk—Helen Roach.

Stenographers—Elizabeth Taylor, Myrtle Roberg, Irene Thompson.

Model Clothes, Lunch.

The time of the scene will be just about the noon hour in a busy office. On their way to lunch during the noon hour the office girls stop to admire the dresses in a style shop. These frocks, all of them made by girls in the Home economics classes, will be modeled by Anna Hogman, Ruth Hogan, Marian Anderson and Florence Edgar.

The group of office girls then go on to a lunch room, where a model meal will be cooked and served by Florence Gerou, Helen Salimen, Ruth Schou and Olive Johnson.

For the second part of this vocational episode, the stage will be subdivided into several miniature manual arts shops, presenting altogether a veritable maze of industrial activity. The shops and the workers who will be in them are as follows:

Doyens on Parole; Will Refund Money From Forged Notes

Three year parole was imposed by Judge Frank A. Bell Monday in the case of Jack Doyens, who pleaded guilty when arraigned in circuit court on a forgery charge. The conditions of the parole are that Doyens refund to the local bank the money which he obtained on notes, and he will report regularly to John Judson, local parole officer.

Doyens used the name of Gregory Puissant as a signature for $100 promissory notes which he cashed here, obtaining $400 in this manner. Under the conditions of the parole he must pay back the sum of $413.85. A bond has been given as guarantee to the bank that the money will be returned.

Thomas E. Midgley experimented with 33,000 chemicals before discovering Ethyl—(First marketed in 1926).

In 1929, 1,300,000,000 gallons of Ethyl gasoline were sold to motorists.

FAST SUCCESS STORY No. 7
THOMAS E. MIDGLEY, JR.

Just as Midgley's invention of Ethyl took the knock out of motors; so OLD GOLD took the "cough" out of smoking.

It created a new and greater type of cigarette enjoyment. It used better tobaccos, free of all throat-irritating impurities. With a natural honey-smoothness that no artificial treatment can duplicate.

And OLD GOLD sales shot up and UP and UP, reaching a sales-volume greater than that of three other leading brands combined, in a like period of their existence.

On Apr. 19, '26, the first OLD GOLD rolled from the cigarette machine. Today two giant factories are required to satisfy the millions of O. G. fans.

How to Shop

Porch Rugs.

By William H. Baldwin
Author of 'The Shopping Book'

In the selection of porch rugs a controlling factor is the degree to which the porch is exposed to the weather. If it is well protected, then the so-called fibre rugs may be included among the suitable choices, but you must remember that these are paper products which will go to pieces quickly if frequently wet.

The toughest material for a porch rug is coco fibre which is twisted into strands, dyed and woven.

Other good types of porch rugs are those made of grass and the rush rugs made from tough reeds. The material of a good grass rug is a light straw piled in cables and bound with a strong cotton thread. As the strength of this type is in the binder, examine this thread carefully.

Unusual Bridge Hands

BY WM. E. McKENNEY
Tournament Manager, American Bridge League

The long card of an apparently worthless five card suit can often be established for an extra trick as shown in the following hand.

NORTH
S—K-Q-J-8-5-4-3
H—A-10
D—Q-6-3
C—K

WEST
S—9-7
H—8-7-2
D—10-8-5-4
C—A-Q-7-2

EAST
S—6-2
H—J-9-6-4-3
D—K-9-2
C—J-9-4

SOUTH—DEALER
S—A-10
H—K-Q-5
D—A-J-7
C—10-8-6-5-3

The Bidding

At auction, South, the dealer, would bid one no trump, North would take out with one spade. If South re-bid one no trump, North would re-bid the spades and buy the contract.

At contract, South, with three suits stopped, would open the bidding with one no trump. West would pass. North must now start to count the high card tricks in the South hand. South must hold at least two aces and probably the king of hearts or the king of diamonds, therefore North, with seven probable tricks, should jump the bidding to five spades, East passes and South, who has more than the minimum requirement, would take the bidding to six spades which should close the contracting.

The Play

It is true that if East opens the club, the hand will be held to a small slam, but the natural opening for East to make is the four of hearts, the fourth best of his longest and strongest suit.

Dummy plays the five, West the seven and North, the declarer, wins the trick with the ace. Declarer now returns the ten of hearts, East following with the three, dummy the queen and West the deuce.

By the rule of eleven, declarer knows that the West hand holds one more heart, so he continues with the king of hearts from dummy, West plays the eight, declarer discards the king of clubs, East following with the six of hearts.

If the declarer can find the king of diamonds in the East hand, he must try to establish his fifth club in order to make a grand slam. He therefore leads the three of clubs from dummy. West plays the deuce and declarer trumps with the three of spades, East following with the four of clubs.

Declarer now leads a small spade, East plays the deuce and declarer wins the trick in dummy with the ten spot, West following with the seven. A small club is then led from dummy, West plays the seven, declarer trumps with the jack of spades, East following with the nine of clubs.

Declarer now leads the five of spades, East plays the six, dummy winning the trick with the ace, West following with the nine. The six of clubs is then led from dummy, West plays the queen, declarer trumps with the eight of spades, East following with the jack of clubs.

A small diamond is then led by declarer, East follows with the deuce and declarer finesses the jack in dummy, which holds the trick, West following with the four.

Dummy now leads the eight of clubs, West plays the ace and declarer trumps with the king of spades, East discarding the nine of hearts.

Declarer now enters the dummy by leading a small diamond, winning in the dummy with the ace, and discarding his queen of diamonds on the ten of clubs.

Why Not Drive A Used Car? Everyone Does

Escanaba Automobile Dealers Will Launch Sales Drive Friday

A Used Car Sales campaign will be launched by the motor car dealers division of the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce, in cooperation with the EscanabaDaily Press, beginningFriday, June 13, and continuing for 10 days.

The slogan of the campaign will be: "Drive A Used Car; Everyone Else Does; Why Don't You?"

The best bargains ever offered in used cars anywhere in the upper peninsula will be given by the Escanaba dealers during this gigantic sales drive. Every car will be reconditioned, polished up and placed in excellent shape before placed on sale. Only certified automobiles will be sold.

Tomorrow's issue of the Escanaba Daily Press will carry a full-page advertisement, giving the details of the plans for the event. The sale starts on Friday, the feature event being a used car parade at noon. All dealers will enter a splendid array of automobiles in this big procession. A breakfast for the salesmen will be held in the morning at 7:30, at which time the general instructions will be given out and the proper amount of inspiration and enthusiasm instilled.

Never in the history of the automobile business in the upper peninsula has the public been presented with such a splendid opportunity to get good used cars at such rare bargains. Dealers today are taking great pride in the caliber of used cars they are offering. They are carefully checking all cars before placing them on sale—many cars are repainted, mechanical replacements made when needed and other repairs made so that the buyer may be assured of receiving a truly serviceable car.

The thinking buyer has made a practice of carefully going over the used car offerings before purchasing any car. He realizes that every car on the street is a used car. It becomes one the moment it is delivered to the buyer. The majority of used cars cannot be told from a new car, yet the buyer enjoys a genuine saving.

Professor Craig of U. of Michigan in Munising, Makes Plans

The University of Michigan summer school of forestry will be conducted again this summer in Alger county. The site used last summer, just off M-28 at the eight mile turn, is being prepared for the season.

Professor Craig informs the Press that there will be a 90 per cent increase in the enrollment for this year.

Ultimately the university will erect its own buildings on a site which is being obtained on a beautiful tract east of the city of Munising, but for the present season the old C. C. I. camps near the eight mile turn will again be utilized.

The school will be in session during the greater part of the summer, July and August.

The results obtained from last year's sesion proved most gratifying to the university officials and highly beneficial to the students.

Accompanied by her husband, who was driving, and her daughter, Anne, Mrs. Wittler was returning home from Chicago. While rounding a curve about a mile north of Trenary, according to Mr. Wittler, the right hand wheels of the car struck loose gravel. The rear end swerved into a pile of cordwood off the edge of the road when Mr. Wittler attempted to drive the car back onto the road and it toppled over. It turned completely over once.

THEATRES

RIALTO.

Catherine Dale Owen, acclaimed the most beautiful blonde of the screen, who is co-featured with Warner Baxter in "Such Men Are Dangerous," Fox Movietone all talking drama based on Elinor Glyn's entrancing story, studied the piano for six years and is an accomplished musician.

Miss Owen portrays the character of the beautiful bride who runs away from her husband on the night of their wedding on account of his repulsiveness. Baxter enacts the role of the husband, who, after the desertion, disappears mysteriously from his expensive airplane while crossing the English Channel and later, under another name, has his face and body so completely remodeled by a famous plastic surgeon that even his wife fails to recognize him where he once more takes his place in society.

Such notables of the all talking screen as Albert Conti, Hedda Hopper, Claude Allister and Bela Lugosi support the principals.

"Such Men Are Dangerous" is now showing at the Rialto Theatre. Critics are almost a unit in declaring it one of the best of recent screen offerings.

HAS THE LAXATIVE IN YOUR HOME A DOCTOR'S APPROVAL?

Some things people do to help the bowels whenever any bad breath, feverishness, biliousness, or a lack of appetite warn of constipation, really weaken these organs. Only a doctor knows what will cleanse the system without harm. That is why the laxative in your home should have the approval of a family doctor.

The wonderful product, known to millions as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a family doctor's prescription for sluggish bowels. It never varies from the original prescription which Dr. Caldwell wrote thousands of times in many years of practice, and proved safe and reliable for men, women and children. It is made from herbs and other pure ingredients, so it is pleasant-tasting, and can form no habit. You can buy this popular laxative from all drugstores.

Manistique Almost Certain to Be on Chicago-Detroit Air Route

CITY RAISING MONEY QUOTA

Daily Plane Service to Be Given By Foster Airways Company

Manistique, Mich., June 10 (Special)—Subscribing to $2200 of the $3000 quota set for this city by the Foster Airways Corp., Manistique practically assured itself of being on the daily air route to Chicago and Detroit Monday evening at a meeting of local business men held at the Elk's temple. It is expected that service will commence sometime this month.

After giving a brief history of aviation from its inception to the present day, John Lilly, of the Foster Airways Corp., described the network of air routes in Europe, South America, and the United States, told of the early beginnings of the Foster Airways' and outlined the plan whereby Manistique could become a part of the proposed upper peninsula route to Chicago, Lansing and Detroit.

In instituting air service here, Mr. Lilly declared that some guarantee for the assurance of business would have to be given as the cost of operating a giant Sikorsky amphibian plane for one day would total approximately $300. The form of guarantee offered by Mr. Lilly is in the form of transportation certificates in books of twenty, each certificate having the face value of five dollars. These certificates may be used for any form of aviation service, such as for the payment of express, passenger rates, chartering of a plane for a special trip, etc. They are the same as American Bankers association checks or American Express checks and may be redeemed for cash at par value at any time within the next four years.

No Sale of Stock

All stock in the corporation has been subscribed to and the transportation certificates will serve merely as a guarantee of cooperation on the part of Manistique to insure the service. James Foster, Lansing, is president of the cooporation and other directors are Hershey, chocolate manufacturer, Haines, of the Haines Motor company, and other prominent figures in the financial world.

Numerous advantages would accrue to Manistique in becoming linked up with daily air service, Mr. Lilly stated. Business men of Chicago and Detroit would be enabled to spend their week ends with their families here as flying time between here and Chicago is only four hours and between Manistique and Detroit is only three and one half hours. Hunters from metropolitan areas who now hunt small game in the vicinity of the cities because they cannot afford the time to make an extended trip would have the opportunity of hunting big game up here. Local business men could make flying trips to the cities in record time free from grime and soot and in complete comfort. Requests leaving here for products which can be shipped by express in the afternoon may be received the next morning. Afternoon editions of metropolitan newspapers will arrive here the same evening. The Foster Airways propose to make a films of the upper peninsula showing the cities and surrounding country. These films will be shown in the theatres of the metropolitan areas and should serve as a great advertising medium.

Charge Rail Rates

"Air service, both passenger and express will be introduced at competitive prices," declared Mr. Lilly. "Express will be taken at the same price now charged by the American Express company and a rate of from five to 10 cents per mile will be charged for passenger service. Because the air line between Chicago or Detroit is so much shorter than the route taken by rail, the rate charged for passenger service will not be any higher than railroad fare and will probably be less. These competitive prices will prevail for six months and if at the length of that time the company finds that they will have to raise their rates, ample notice will be given to that effect. The Foster Airways Corp. does not expect to operate at a profit during the its first year."

According to present plans two planes will arrive daily. One of these will be enroute to Detroit and the other will be going to Chicago. No definite schedule has been made as yet and schedules will be changed from time to time until satisfactory time has been set for all cities on the route. Only the convenience of its patrons will be considered in the establishment of the schedule.

Weather No Barrier

Weather conditions will be no barier to the proposed year-round service, Mr. Lilly stated. Trips will not be made when the elements are such that the lives of passengers will be endangered, but storms will have to be pretty bad to hamper the service. Mr. Lilly cited the case of one airway corporation which has been operating for more than a year during which time weather condition have not prevented the making of a single trip.

All pilots employed by the company are of the highest calibre, being former army aviator or graduates of the Foster Airway corporation school. They have had a minimum of 600 hours flying time which is 200 hours in excess of the government regulation. According to Mr. Lilly a number of schools are offering to train students to be commercial pilots for a sum of $350. The Foster school has a tuition fee of $1100 and Mr. Lilly claims that good pilots cannot be produced at a cost much below this figure. During the war it is said to have cost the government $3000 to put each man through the aviation course. No stunting of anykind will be undertaken by the pilots of this concern and Mr. Lilly offered to forfeit $1000 if anyone could offer proof of any inconvenience whatsoever caused by faulty or foolhardy pilot control. The Foster corporation plans on incorporating a student school in the upper peninsula in the near future.

Mr. Lilly commended local officials as to the site of the Manistique airport and advocates the putting in of at least two runways and if possible to construct four of them running in the primary directions. The lack of runways, however, will have no bearing upon the opening of the service as the field can be used in its present condition. The matter may be taken up at the county board of supervisors meeting which will be held on Monday, June 23. The Foster company has offered to send an engineer to supervise the construction of the runways and also to help improve the field in any other way necessary.

To Use Amphibians

On account of the necessity of cutting across Lake Michigan in order to secure a more direct route and also because of the fact that there are stretches of fifty miles or more in this territory upon which it is impossible to land, only planes of the amphibian type which are enabled to land either on land or water will be used.

Sikorsky and Savoy-Marchette are the types of air craft which the company expects to use on this route, neither kind of plane costing less than $62,000. The Sikorsky planes are capable of carrying 12 passengers and a maximum of 6000 pounds of express. They are the last word in luxuriousness with first class lounging facilities, dining room, and lavatories. There are very few privately owned Sikorskys in this country, William Wrigley, Chicago chewing gum manufacturer, having one for his private use. The Savoy-Marchette plane has two cabins, is capable of carrying 18 passengers, and is the finest piece of air craft in the state.

As soon as the Foster Airways can secure enough business and as soon as the survey of the proposed route which has already taken 22 months, has been taken, service will be commenced. Mr. Lilly expects that the schedule will be in operation during the latter part of this month. Other upper peninsula cities which are scheduled to be on the itinerary are St. Ignace and Newberry.

Something Fishy About This Story But It's Truthful

This may be a fish story, but contrary to most fish stories this is a true one according to John Lilly of the Foster Airways corporation. The other day when James Foster, president of the above firm, was in town, he in company with a photographer from the Detroit Times went over to the Coffey Fish company where a photo was taken of a few specimens of lake trout.

The picture was taken at exactly four o'clock and at six-thirty that evening the same fish was being served in the dining room of the Fort Shelby hotel, Detroit.

Believe it or not. Detroit has eastern standard time.

Lupton Rites Are Held at Lakeview

Funeral services for Theodore Lupton, 17 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Lupton, who was burned to death Sunday evening when fire destroyed the family residence at Huntspur, took place yesterday afternoon at Lakeview cemetery. Rev. C. M. Muilenburg, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of this city, presided at the services. The funeral was conducted by Nels Johnson.

Besides his parents, the deceased is survived by his grandmothers, Mrs. Sam Stites; two brothers, Leonard and William, and four sisters, Pearl, Isabel, Clarabel, and Cinderella.

Mrs. Jennie Putnam left Monday for New York City and will sail from there June 18 on the steamer, "Acquitania," for Europe. Enroute to New York she will visit the Soo, Ann Arbor, and Detroit. Included in her itinerary are the countries, England, Holland, Germany, Italy, Switzerland and France from where she will return early in September.

Miss Emma Hayden, student at Alma college, is expected to arrive home today for a brief visit before going to Harber Springs, Mich., where she will be employed for the summer.

Airplane Will Supplant Train as Means of Travel In Near Future Says Lilly

Waxing enthusiastic over the future of aviation in this country John Lilly, of the Foster Airways Corp., and a pioneer in the field of aeronautics, last night, before a group of Manistique business men assembled at the Elks' temple, predicted the passing of the railroad in passenger transportation in favor of the airplane within the next two years.

From the time of the inception of air travel back in 1903 when Wilbur and Orville Wright first experimented with the heavier-than-air machine, aviation has made rapid strides, with the exception of one or two serious setbacks such as is customary in the introduction of any new and faster means of travel, Mr. Lilly said.

In delivering a brief history of aviation, Mr. Lilly, began from the first disappointing trials of the Wright brothers who at that time were in the bicycle manufacturing business, and traced the evolution to the gigantic planes of the present day. The Wright brothers, according to Mr. Lilly, are the fathers of aviation. Their activities aroused the curiosity of Glenn Curtis who perfected the airplane to such a degree that instead of being able to fly for only a few miles as the Wright brothers had done, was able to increase the mileage span from 25 to 50 miles. Curtis conferred with Dr. Alexander Graham Bell on the subject and it was that learned scientist's opinion that aviation was a promising and worth-while field.

Exhibit in France

"In 1910, France had become aware of the possibilities of aerodynamics and held an international aeronautics exhibition. At this time," according to Mr. Lilly, "there were but 20 pilots in the world. The United States led the field then as it has ever since.

"Archie Hoxie's fatal flight in Los Angeles in 1910 when a majority of people viewed aeronautics with a feeling of skenticism, was the first major setback to aviation's steady advance," declared Mr. Lilly. "After failing to rise to any appreciable height in his first attempt, Hoxey took off again, rose to a height of 250 feet, when suddenly the plane crumpled in mid-air. Hoxey was killed. The immense throng rushed to the wrecked plane and began tearing off the fuselage, joists, and even took buttons off of Hoxie's clothing as souvenirs.

Beachey's Death

"Probably a more serious stumbling block in aerial progress was that in which Lincoln Beachey, the first man to loop the loop and to perform other stunts such as the falling leaf, was killed when his plane failed him while over San Francisco bay in March, 1915. Up to that time Beachey was the most widely-known "barnstormer" in the country.

"In 1914 at the outbreak of the World war, Major Belkey of Germany, probably knew more about aviation than any other man in the belligerent countries. Major Belkey was killed by Ernest Piguade of France in the first fight ever to take place in the air and what would now be termed "a dog fight.' '" Mr. Lilly declared. "They circled each other in contiuous revolution. Belkey was armed with a revolver and Piguade carried a shotgun. Germany's ace of aces, Baron Von Richthofen, was a pupil of Belkey's."

Germany Superior

It was about this time that the Royal Flying Corps was organized in England of which Mr. Lilly was a member. Up until 1917, when Bleriot invented the Spad, Germany ruled supreme in the air. With the perfection of this new type of motor, however, they were soon eclipsed.

Under-Secretary Sir Phillip Sasscon was largely instrumental in establishing much of the European aerial network, linking London with Barcelona, Paris, Leningrade, Rome, the Mediterranean coast, and the western part of North Africa.

"In 1925 there was much talk of spanning the Atlantic from New York to Paris, but here again a lull set in and it was not until 1927 before anything definite came of the proposition. At this time four groups of men simultaneously began preparations for the west-east hop across the ocean.

87 Before "Lindy"

Lindbergh, backed by a group of St. Louis business men, was one of these parties. Public opinion is to the effect that Lindbergh's flight was sort of a haphazard affair without much calculation. On the contrary Lindbergh's flight was most carefully planned and he had plenty of financial backing. His plane, a Ryan monocoupe, was absolutely the best flying craft perfected at that time, and preparations had been made for him against every conceivable contingency.

"I do not wish to take any credit away from Col. Lindbergh—he's a wonderful pilot, but the idea that his flight was of an extemporaneous nature is entirely erroneous. Also the popular conception that Lindbergh was the first to span the Atlantic is incorrect, for exactly 87 men had turned the trick before Col. Lindbergh did.

Acosta Best Pilot

Another one of these parties, Lieut. Byrd, was the next to take off and successfully complete the trans-Atlantic trip. Although Byrd was forced to land in the ocean because the landing field was hid from view on account of the fog, he nevertheless was successful in his flight. The Byrd plane was piloted by Bert Acosta whom I regard as the greatest pilot in the world.

"Chamberlain-Levine were the next successful aviators to make the intercontinental flight, establishing a record for distance when they landed in Germany. Lindbergh's flight together with the following successful trans-Atlantic trips did more to arouse interest in aviation than any other single factor before or since."

Mr. Lilly, together with Clyde Pangrin who outside of Eddie Stinson of Detroit has had more flying hours than any other man, "barnstormed" on the Pacific coast while flying was still a novelty. The term "barn storming" Mr. Lilly explains, means the flying from place to place in order to acquaint people with the possibilities of aviation by taking them for short five or ten minute rides. Mr. Lilly said that in the early days, only the town daredevil would summon enough courage to go for a ride so that he could brag about it to his townsfolk. Later, however, when aviation became safer and rates decreased people became more air-minded and were more than willing to experience a ride in a plane.

U. S. Army Best

"The United States army air service is the best in the world, Mr. Lilly declared. Col. William Mitchell was one of the first army men to realize the great possibilities of the airplane in warfare. His views were thought to be erratic by his superiors and he was suspended from service for several years because of several articles he had written for the Saturday Evening Post.

It will soon be possible for residents of Manistique to travel from here to South America via an all-air route. Aviation companies now have regular passenger service between New York city and Bermuda, New York to the Pacific coast, Chicago to the coast, etc. Regular trips are also being made between Chicago and Detroit in two hours time, Detroit to Cleveland in an hour and forty minutes, and from Cleveland to Buffalo in four and one-half half hours. Mr. Lilly predicted that within three years residents of Detroit, Chicago, and New York would be enabled to take weekly trips to Paris.

Railroads Cooperating

Even railroad officials are recognizing the fact that the airplane will soon supplant passenger service on their lines. General Atturbury, president of the Pennsylvania railroad says that in five years time a train ride will be a novelty. This railroad, and the Santa Fe likewise, are operating under a plan whereby passengers are crossing the continent by airplane during the daytime and using trains at night, regular schedules having been consumated in which no time is lost in changing from airplane to train or vice versa.

Mr. Lilly next told of how the Foster Airways corporation was organized. James Foster, president of the concern, was an aviator in the United States army during the World war. At the conclusion of the war Mr. Foster had returned to civilian life, an airplan salesman tried to sell him a plane. He decided to quit aviation and therefore the salesman's appeal fell on deaf ears. This particular seller of airplanes, however, was a persistant man and finally induced Jim to buy the monoplane. Soon Mr. Foster realized that the airplane had a definite place in civilization and saw the business possibilities therein. Soon he began the purchase of more and more planes until today the company is a recognized leader in the field. The Foster Airways corporation was established ten years ago, but has been incorporated in the state only during the past five years.

In the proposed plan of linking Manistique with Detroit and Chicago, the Foster Airways will ask for the U. S. government contract for the carrying of mail. According to U. S. regulations an air service must have been established for three months before these contracts may be awarded.

now." He looked toward the door. "Ah there, Alan. I was afraid you might disappoint."

Alan and Phillipa stared at each other in amazement.

"Just a little surprise I arranged," Geoffrey explained lightly. "I hope you will forgive me, but I've something to say to you two. A little coffee first?"

Both refused, Alan indifferently, and Phillipa with a touch of asperity.

"Then let's all be seated," Geoffrey invited, and offered Phillipa a chair. She sat down, feeling awkward and disturbed. Alan dropped into a wing chair and reached for a cigaret.

"Alan," Geoffrey said, gazing steadfastly at his friend. "I've asked you to come here so that I might tell you I think you have made a great mistake."

Alan was staring back at him, his expression a decided question mark. Neither looked at Phillipa.

"About Natalie, I mean," Geoffrey went on. "Good God, man, how could you have believed she touched that letter?"

Alan started to rise. "Sit down," Geoffrey snapped. "You've got to listen. You judged Natalie without a fair trial. She's told me about it. I ran across her at Penn Station yesterday, half out of her mind, fit for the hospital. I took care of her, and made her talk. She was in no condition to think—she just talked."

"I suppose she accused Mrs. Lamont?" Alan said bitterly.

"She didn't accuse anyone. She seemed stunned. But I gathered that at one time she was very jealous of the woman you mention."

"Very?" It was Phillipa, ending on a taunting laugh.

". . . She told me, however," Geoffrey went on, "that you were going to marry Miss West."

"So you did know when you telephoned?" Phillipa thrust at him. She was beginning to feel at sea—helpless.

"Yes?" Alan said on Geoffrey's pause.

"Did it never occur to you to doubt everyone who had a chance at that letter?" Geoffrey asked, abruptly.

"Well, really," Phillipa jumped to her feet, but Geoffrey motioned her to be quiet.

"I want Alan to answer that question," he said with a solemnity that stopped Phillipa's protest.

"Of course, I did," Alan declared testily.

"Are you certain of that?" Geoffrey insisted.

"Now see here," Alan began impatiently, "this is all very well, coming from a friend of Natalie's, but why did you drag Miss West into it?"

Phillipa whirled to him. "Let's get out," she cried. "This is contemptible."

Geoffrey ignored the baleful glance she cast at him, and Alan shook his head.

"No," he said firmly, "not until I know what Norman's got on his mind."

"All right," Geoffrey said tensely. "I'll tell you." He turned to face Phillipa where she stood stiffly before her chair, gripping her handbag to keep her hands from shaking.

"Miss West," he said buntly, "do you know anything about that letter that you haven't told Alan?"

Phillipa stared back at him for a moment, her eyes blazing defiance, then they wavered, and she turned to Alan.

"I won't stand for this," she cried. "He's only doing it to humiliate me. If you're a man you won't stand for it, either."

She rushed over to Alan and grabbed him by the arm. "Let's go," she wailed. "Let's go."

"Wait a minute," Alan spoke sternly. "How about it, Geoffrey? Are you ready to apologize?"

"Apologize?" Geoffrey echoed blankly. "For asking Miss West a question that I believe should have been asked her long before this?"

Alan thrust Phillipa's hands away, and strode toward him. "For what's behind the question," he said levelly. "I think you know that your implication is clear to both of us."

Geoffrey gravely inclined his head. "I mean it to be," he said quietly. "Miss West had every opportunity to tamper with that letter, yet it seems that you never thought of suspecting her, Alan."

BY JOHN L. COOLEY.
(Associated Press Financial Writer.)

New York, June 10. (AP)—The stock market today received a dose of that dependable tonic, short covering, which revived its spirits and sent it into a lively rally. Net gains of 3 to 10 points were made by a large number of issues that had been hardest hit by the recent liquidation.

The improvement appeared only after a hard struggle, for the bears gave in only when selling from outside sources had dried up aand the list had displayed symptoms of an oversold conditions. Trading during most of the session, which has been slightly more active than yesterday's, returned to the hands of the professionals, with the shorts apparently well satisfied with their profits.

Lower at Start.

Stocks sold 3 to 6 points lower inthe first hour or so, regained most of the decline in a rally, slumped again and finally turned definitely upward in the afternoon. There was little bearish material in U. S. Steel's unfilled tonnage report, which showed a decrease of 244,993 tons in May, about a normal seasonal decline. An examination of the records disclosed that the decrease was substantially less than the May average for the past seven years and that only twice in that interval had the shrinkage in the company's backlog been smaller than the current figures.

Coincident with this announcement, published at noon, was the weekly unofficial report of steel mill operations. This stated that the average for the entire industry was virtually the same as last week's—71 per cent. The steel corporation is working at the 75 per cent level against 79 per cent two years ago and full capacity last year, which was of course an abnormal season.

There was some encouragement in the weekly statement of the reporting Federal Reserve Member Banks. Commercial loans showed the first gain in some time, and although the increase amounted to only $18,000,000, leaving the total about $700,000,000 below a year ago, the interruption of the lower trend received considerable comment. Investment holdings of banks rose $42,000,000, thus maintaining the definite move that started about two months ago.

U. S. Steel got within an eighth of yesterday's low on early trading, but was a prominent leader in the upturn, finishing at 166¾ for a net improvement of 4 7-8. American Can managed to keep above yesterday's close all day and showed a 6 point net improvement. General Electric American Tobacco B, International Harvester, Johns-Manville Standard Oil of New Jersey and National Biscuit closed to 2 to 6 points higher.

Covering in the specialties effected some smart rallies. J. I. Case, which had sold as low as 213, snapped up to 237 for a net rise of 18 points. Worthington Pump gained 12, Vanadium 10, Eastman Kodak 9 and Houston Oil 8.

Utilities Rise.

Amusement shares recovered broadly after meeting further pressure. Radio-Keith-Orpheum, after almost touching 30, yesterday's final quotation, rallied 5¼ on the day. Loew's was up 5, Paramount 4 and Warner Brothers Pictures nearly 5.

Gains of 3 to 7 points were frequent in the uitility group.

Several of the rails picked up considerable strength. Missouri Pacific and St. Louis Southwestern advancing 5, New York Central about 4 and Rock Island and Chesapeake & Ohio 2.

Commodity prices were mixed. Wheat declined slightly more than a cent on the average and corn eased slightly. Cotton was steady, varying 5 points higher to 3 points net lower. Sugar was dull.

A substantial demand for the French franc, both here and in London, was a feature of the foreign exchange market. The quotation moved up nearly half a point. The Spanish peseta was heavy.

NEW CORPORATION.

Gunther Gardens, Inc., Ann Arbor, $100,000 and 10,000 shares no par value; landscape designing.

General Tire Sales company, Flint, $22,500 and 400 shares no par value; automobile tires and accessories.

The Blaney Development company, Blaney, $25,000; real estate.

Lake Nettie Amusement corporation, Hawks, $50,000 and 1,000 shares no par value; own develop and operate amusement parks, theatres, dance halls, etc.

New York, June 10. (AP)—Stimulated by the announcement that new treasury financing had been oversubscribed three times, United States Government bonds on the New York stock exchange reached new high prices for the year today as a mixed movement in the rest of the list developed under broadened trading.

The climb of several government issues to erase former 1930 high marks was the only noteworthy feature of the trend in prices which otherwise moved irregularly. The increased trading brought the second $10,000,000 business day of the month. A good demand developed for prime railroad and utility issues which were steady to firm, with secondary rails inclined to ease. Industrial issues softened. After moving uncertainly at the start of the day, convertible bonds rallied to finish the session with good gains.

The market showed an inclination to display animation but was repressed by the volume of new offerings. Bond men took the oversubscription of the $400,000,000 treasury financing as an indication of a strong demand by banks for prime fixed income securities and it proved a constructive force in the market, offsetting the weight of new financing.

Rail Issues Up.

Liberty 3½s and Liberty 4th 4¼s were the governments establishing new high marks on the strength of the demand which has asserted itself during the past 10 days. Most of the issues finished slightly higher.

A few rail issues such as Baltimore and Ohio 6s, Canadian Pacific 4s, Erie 5s, Missouri Pacific 5s, Pennsylvania 5s, Southern Pacific 4½s gained about ¼ of a point but the downturn of others gave the rails an irregular appearance.

Among the utilities, American Telephone 5s and 5½s were in demand and firm, and International Telephone 5s were bought heavily with fractional improvement. Kansas City Power and Light 4½s jumped 3½ points on thin sales to the year's high.

On a small turnover, American Telephone 4½s led the rally of convertibles with a gain of 3 points.

The foreign bonds were moderately active but subject to a mixed movement. With the exception of Brazil 6s, Argentine 6s, and Peru 6s, South American Governments turned soft. European Governments were steady to firm, with German, French and Italian bonds gaining.

Eagles often construct homes of huge sticks and limbs which nearly weigh a ton.

SURE, IT'S A SIN

London—One London barber wants it known that he refuses to cut the curly locks of females. He claims it's a sin. On the wall of his shop he has a sign quoting from Corinthians, "If a woman have long hair it is a glory to her." Despite his lack of woman patronage, he is doing a good business because males flock to his establishment to escape the association with women in other shops.

UTILITIES ARE CURB LEADERS

BY CLAUDE A. JAGGER,
(Associated Press Financial Writer.)

New York, June 10. (AP)—The curb market was subjected to further weakening early in today's session, but the expected technical rally appeared during the afternoon, as the over-extended short interest hastened to cover, piling up total sales in excess of 2,000,000 shares for the first time this year.

It was notable that the recovery was concentrated in the more active issues, particularly in the utility group, and in those issues in which there is an adequate loaning supply, indicating that the recovery represented little more than short covering. Large supporting orders appeared for leading utility shares made their appearance, however, as sponsors of these issues were apparently unwilling to see them sharply depressed at a time when several merger developments are under consideration.

Such issues as Electric Bond and Share, American Gas and Electric, American Superpower, United Light A, Hydro Electric and Brazilian Traction rallied 2 to 5 points. Less active issues, however, such as Cleveland Electric and Associated Gas, both of which touched new 1930 lows, failed to participate in the late rebound.

Few of the industrials made marked recovery, although Deere and Ford of Canada A gained about 5 and 4 points, respectively. Technicolor rebounded about 7. Columbia Pictures, sagged 3, and L'Air Liquide 10 points to new lows.

Several of the investment trusts continued heavy, although Goldman Sachs rallied 2 points, after establishing a new low at 25¼.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, June 10.—Enlarged estimates of 1930 domestic winter wheat production, together with new wheat arriving at Kansas City, did much to pull wheat values down today. Unsettlement of the New York stock market counted further as a bearish influence, and so too did scantiness of fresh export demand for wheat. Current advices said recent rains had increased the probable yield of new wheat in the southwest as much as 10,000,000 to 15,000,000 bushels.

Closing quotations on wheat were nervous 7-8 to 1 3-8c a bushel lower than yesterday's finish. Corn closed ¼ to ½c off, oats unchanged to 1c down, and proviisons at 7c to 15c decline.

Contributing to the cautiousness shown today by purchasers of wheat was the fact that a government crop report was due after the close, and that of late the figures from private crop experts and those from official sources have been less in accord than usual. The chief depressing influence during most of the day, however, was the temporary bearish action of the stock market, action which many wheat traders construed as largely the outcome of unpromising economic conditions.

Corn and oats were swayed almost altogether by the action of wheat. Weather conditions over the corn belt were favorable for development of the new corn crop.

Provisions sympathized with downturns in the value of hogs.

Closing indemnities wheat—July 1.04 7-8, 1.07 7-8 to 1.08; Sept. 1.07 3-4 to 7-8, 1.10 3-4 to 7-8; Dec. 1.12½ to 5-8, 1.15 3-8 to ½. Corn—July 81 1-8, 82 3-8, Sept. 81½ to 5-8, 82 5-8 to 3-4; Dec. 75 3-8 to ½, 76½.

Gladiators are Primed for Championship Battle

BOSTON SAILOR PICKED TO WIN

Schmeling's Ability to Take It Stands Test Tomorrow Night

BY EDWARD J. NEIL
(Ass'd Press Sports Writer)

New York, June 10 —The fistic king of the old world and the heavyweight monarch of the new—young and eager Max Schmeling and the older, more prosaic Jack Sharkey—sat down tonight to rest and worry off poundage until a crowd of 70,000 calls them into the Yankee Stadium ring Thursday night to do battle for the world's championship.

Tomorrow the gladiators and the hordes of handlers and hangers-on that surround all fistic headliners will move into town with their arguments and predictions of victory. Already the excitement and tenseness that always surround big moments in ring history is cropping out where the faithful gather. Special trains from the mid-west, north, south and east are bearing vociferous burdens into the fistic stockades.

So vigorous has been the demand for tickets in the past few days that predictions of a $750,000 gross gate were freely made and accepted today despite inclement weather, usually a damper to enthusiasm. The weather forecasts indicate, however, that all will be bright and cheerful on Thursday the only day that really matters to the customers. In cast of rain the show will be put on Friday night.

No License for Jacobs

Only one worry is left to the Schmeling camp now that the German challenger has completed his training and is in perfect condition for the fray. The New York state athletic commission has yet to grant Joe Jacobs, his manager of choice and the man he has picked to guide him in Thursday's battle, a license to second his man. The commission meets tomorrow for the last time before the fight and is expected to honor Jacobs with a temporary vise.

As the battle swings down almost to the time for throwing punches Schmeling's chances to win for Europe its first modern heavyweight championship are being regarded with more and more favor though Sharkey rules the betting struggle. The only question regarding him seems to be his ability to take punishment. In winning five fights here, including knockouts of Joe Monte and Johnny Risko and a one-sided decision over Paulino Uzcudun. Max never has been called upon to fight his way out of a fog and on to victory.

The Teuton's style is perfectly designed to bother Sharkey. Rushing, punching warriors always have harrassed the Boston sailor. He was knocked out by Jack Dempsey and was charged out of a title shot at Gene Tunney by Johnny Risko and Tom Heeney. Although Sharkey should hit him at will with his smart left hand, Schmeling has traveled far under the slogan originated by Napoleon and modernized by Knute Rockne.—The best defense is a good offense.

Orangeburg, N. Y., June 10 (AP)—Jack Sharkey completed his training today with an impressive workout that included three rounds of boxing, four of shadow fighting and calisthenics.

Immediately after his final workout, Sharkey left Orangeburg in company with his wife for New York. He may decide to pound the bags for two or three hours in a New York gymnasium tomorrow.

SCHMELING WINDS UP

Endicott, N. Y., June 10 (AP)—In a four-round glove workout that bristled with fast fighting and hard hitting, Max Schmeling today closed his training for his heavyweight fight with Jack Sharkey in the Yankee Stadium ring Thursday night.

The German ripped and slashed at Charlie Berlanger, the Canadian light-heavy, for two rounds and finished with Lou Barba over a like number of rounds. A light road jaunt tomorrow will precede the trip to New York, where Schmeling expects to arrive tomorrow night.

Western State Has Edge On Normal, 2-0

Kalamazoo, Mich., June 10 (AP)—Western State Teachers college defeated State Normal college of Ypsilanti, 2 to 0, here today.

Michaelis, of Ypsilanti, and Neigenfind, of Western, engaged in a fine pitching duel, allowing only two and four hits, respectively. But both hits off Michaelis came in the seventh inning during which the locals pushed over their two runs.

Score by innings:

Girard Will Birl At Phelps Water Carnival In July

All of northern Wisconsin will make Whoopee July 5th and 6th when visitors from all parts of the mid-west will gather at Phelps to witness the biggest water carnival ever staged in the Badger State.

A small community with a big idea, executed in metropolitan style, is the boast of the Phelps Water Carnival committee, which is in charge of the two day program—two days crammed with outboard races, lumber jack sports, bathing beauty contests, bait casting tournaments, and other sport pastimes known to the North Woods.

William Girard and George Glazier, world's champion trick and fancy log rollers, will be featured in contests which have attracted entries of many of the foremost birlers of the North Woods. Further, lumber jacks and amateurs by the score have entered numerous log sawing and tree chopping contests which have been arranged.

An Indian village will be erected where Ojibways from the reservations of Wisconsin will stage tribal dances and Indian games.

The variety of stunts, designed to please vacationists, will start at 10 o'clock each morning and continue until dark. Through the use of loud speakers and amplifiers, the audience will be kept in constant touch with every event as it is staged.

Eight outboard events will be held each day and will include races, outboard polo, boat jumping, and surfboard riding. Many of these events have not been seen in the North Woods before, and they have attracted so much attention that entries are being received from all sections of the country. Two well known outboard racers have entered from California.

First Ladies Gilf Matches Are Held

The first ladies' golf matches of the year were played at the club yesterday. Due to the fact that there were no caddies on this day the original match was cancelled and a one club Blind bogey was played, Miss E. Kitchen was the winner and Mrs. Chas. Glavin was second. There was a large crowd of golfers out for the first matches and from the way the match was run this will be a banner year for the lady golfers.

Next Tuesday there will be another match and luncheon will be held at noon. All the lady golfers are requested to attend and make their reservations for lunch early. Notice will appear in these columns later in regard to this meeting.

BOBBLES LOSE FOR DETROIT

Rampant Red Sox Connect for 17 Bingoes to Win, 12 to 6

Detroit, June 10 (AP)—In one of the poorest exhibitions offered by either team this season, Boston Red Sox defeated the Tigers 12 to 6 today to split the series.

Detroit used four pitchers, none of them proving effective, and the rampant Red Sox slugged out 17 hits. Six of them, combined with a muffled fly, netted five runs in the third. Herring was chased in that inning with none out.

The Tigers succeeded in knocking Lisenbee from the box in the third and MacFayden finished, yielding only four hits from then on.

Detroit perpetrated four errors, all figuring in the scoring.

Detroit Going Out; Expect Scramble In 1931 Class A Track

East Lansing, Mich. (AP)—A mad scramble for the high school Class A track championship of the state is in prospect next year in view of the withdrawal of Detroit schools from the state wide competition. The metropolitan institutions will confine their activities to their own city.

Eliminate the Detroit schools from the records of past meets, and few champions are left. In twenty-four years of the annual state interscholastic meet, Detroit institutions have won the title sixteen times. No out-state team has worn the crown of championship since 1917 when Grand Rapids Central High retained its title of the year before. Detroit schools also won premier honors in four years prior to 1917.

Detroit Northwestern, the present champion, has won the title more often than any other school in the state. It has captured the honor eight times. Eastern has taken it three times, Central twice; and Cass Tech, Northeastern and Northern once each.

Grand Rapids Central has been more successful than any other school outside Detroit. It has won the title three times, in 1913, 1916 and 1917. Muskegon was champion in 1909 and 1910. Lansing took the title in 1906, the first year of the meet. Ann Arbor and Bay City Eastern also have held it.

The time for the Atlantic crossing by steamer has been lowered by 21 days and 44 minutes since the Savannah made the first Atlantic voyage.

BRITISH OPEN PLAY MONDAY

Four Stellar American Golfers Will Not Compete in Meet

(Associated Press Sports Writer)

New York, June 10 (AP)—When aspirants for the British open golf championship gather Monday at Hoylake and Wallasey for the first qualifying round, a rearrangement of the pairings will be necessary. At least four of the listed Americans, two prominent amateurs and two well known professionals, will not be there.

Although Harrison R. Johnston, amateur champion of the United States, and George Voigt, semi-finalist in the recent British amateur championship, are named in the pairing, they now are at sea on their way home. Gene Sarazen and Tommy Armour, two former open champions of the United States, have places reserved for them in Monday's play, but Sarazen is in New York and Armour at Detroit.

Three members of the Walker cup team will play, Bobby Jones, George Von Elm and Don Moe. Of the others, Francis Ouimet is returning with Johnston and Voigt, the trio sailing Saturday night, while Roland MacKenzie and Dr. O. F. Willing returned last week.

Four professionals will carry the responsibility of defending the honors won by pros in other years in the classic British event. Jim Barnes, who has held the title, MacDonald Smith and Leo Diegel, who have just missed it, and Horton Smith, who has tried the stunt but once and was sufficiently impressed to have another go at it, make up the four.

New York Yankees Defeat Browns, 5-3

St. Louis, June 10 (AP)—The New York Yankees made it three out of four against the Browns today by winning the final encounter of their series, 5 to 3. All the New York runs were scored off Dick Coffman in the first two innings.

Aided by the early lead, Herb Pennock, veteran southpaw went the route for the Yankees although he was hit freely at times.

Hafey's Condition Considered Serious

St. Louis, June 10 (AP)—Chick Hafey's condition is serious, Dr. Emmet P. North, eye specialist, who examined the St. Louis Cardinals' outfielder, said today. Hafey was ordered home from New York for examination.

Dr. North said he would not permit Hafey to return to the game without a long rest.

Boston Players In Baseball Swap

St. Paul, June 10 (AP)—A pitcher and an outfielder were obtained by the St. Paul association baseball club today from Boston of the American league.

The pitcher, Ben Shields, southpaw, was purchased outright, while John Winsett, outfielder, was obtained on option. Both players will report at Toledo today.

Some of the items in the London Zoo's food bill are: Six tons of nuts for monkeys, 50 tons of herring and whitebait for the seals and polar bears, 1 ton of canary seed, 25,000 eggs, and 20,000 pounds of condensed milk.

BOXING

Cincinnati, O., June 10 (AP)—Cecil Payne, Louisville, won the judge's decision over Bat Battalino, Hartford, Conn., featherweight champion, in a ten-round boxing match here tonight. The title was not at stake. Payne won nine rounds. Weights were Battalino, 127½; Payne, 132.

Toronto, Ont., June 10 (AP)—Frankie Genaro, flyweight champion of the world in the eyes of the National Boxing commission, retained his title here tonight, winning a ten-round decision fight from Albert (Frenchy) Berlanger, of Toronto, Canadian champion and former world's titleholder.

The diminutive New Yorker took the lead after the fourth round, when he solved Berlanger's crowding tactics, and for the remaining six rounds was in control of the situation. Berlanger had a margin in the early rounds mainly through his forcing the pace with a two-handed drive that puzzled Genaro.

After the fourth round Genaro's speed and cleverness began to tell although Berlanger refused to back up when the champion began sending both rights and lefts to the head and body.

Milwaukee, June 10 (AP)—Benny Bass, Philadelphia, junior lightweight champion, knocked out Cowboy Eddie Anderson, Chicago, in the third round of their scheduled 10-round fight here tonight. Bass' title was not at stake.

The fight, originally matched as a title affair, lost its championship angle when Anderson failed to make the required 130 pounds. He was a quarter of a pound overweight. Bass weighed 128½ pounds.

The first two rounds were nearly even with Bass registering a slight edge. In the second, Bass slammed a right that cut Anderson's left eye. Anderson went down twice in the third for a count of nine before Bass delivered a left to the jaw that kept Anderson down one minute and forty-five seconds after the start of the round.

Chicago, June 10 (AP)—Earl Mastro, Chicago featherweight, defeated Ward Sparks of Detroit in a ten-round outdoor bout here tonight, scoring two knockdowns. He upset Sparks for a count of four in the first round with a right uppercut to the jaw and floored him again in the sixth with a left hook. Sparks, however, made a surprising finish.

London—By their heads shall you know them, according to J. Millott Severn, Englands eminent phrenologist.

"Every phase of character can be accounted for in the formation of the head," Severn says. "Whatever the size, the same general characteristics prevail. Persons possessing long, narrow heads have usually a predominance of intellectual faculties over the more purely forceful, executive, and acquisitive faculties associated with a wide head, and should the back be prominent, the domestic and social affections have precedence; if low and flat, there will be a decided lack of moral character; if high, the moral qualities will prevail."

At Mrs Corey's death, it was revealed that she had willed the income of her estate of more than $10,000 to Dr. Samuels in gratitude for what he had done for her husband.

Appears as Relief Hurler for Athletics in Tenth Inning

Chicago, Ill., June 10 (AP)—Bob "Lefty" Grove of the Philadelphia Athletics lost his first game of the season today, appearing in a relief role as the White Sox gained a 7 to 6 victory over Philadelphia in an eleven inning struggle.

Grove appeared in the tenth inning to shut off a Chicago rally which scored two runs after the Athletics appeared to have won the game with two in their half of the tenth but in the 11th, Grove walked two men one purposely, and Bud Clancy singled to drive in the winning run.

In the first extra inning diamond ball tilt in any of the leagues this season, the Daily Press Nonpareils defeated the Northwestern Colts, 23 to 21, in ten innings in a Night Owl game at the City park yesterday afternoon. The victory gave the Press team a one game lead over the Colts for first place in the league standings.

The game was a see-saw affair throughout, the Nonpareils tying the count in the seventh to send the game into extra innings. A four-run rally in the eighth appeared to have sewed up the game for the Press but the Colts returned in their half of the inning with four more. The Press countered with an additional three scores in the tenth while the Colts managed to score only one.

ROCK WINS, 19-9.

Rock, Mich., June 10—(Special)—Rock won its second game in two starts in the Tri-County league here Sunday, when Masonville was defeated 19-9, midst a barrage of singles, doubles and triples from the Rock bats.

The first two Rock men in the first inning went out quickly, and then eight consecutive hits drove Tienert, Masonville pitcher, to cover. Three men faced the new pitcher before the side was retired. This rally, which followed one score by visitors in the first half of the inning, overcome the one tally and gave back a lead which they steadily added to in each succeeding inning.

V. Bailey, Rock third baseman, led his team with four hits in six trips to the rubber. Hollenbeck, Masonville pitcher, pitched a nice game, despite ragged support, and fanned ten men. Bridges, for Rock, was relieved by Pilon in the sixth, with a 12-5 lead.

Escanaba Rifle and Pistol Shots Will Practice on Sunday

Beginning next Sunday, and every Sunday until the date of the Upper Peninsular rifle and pistol shoot, members of the Escanaba Rifle Club will hold practice sessions on their range east of the city.

The local range will be the scene of the big U. P. matches June 28 and 29. Events include individual pistol and rifle events, team matches, and hunting rifle shoots. It is expected to draw entries from all parts of upper Michigan, and the local marksmen are urged to take advantage of practice sessions on Sundays to be in tip-top form for participating in the coming event.

Experiments in Detroit have shown that water in swimming pools can be sterilized by germ-killing rays of ultra-violet lamps.

Car Balances On 40-foot Ledge at Ford River Bridge

Balanced on the edge of a 40-foot embankment, a car carrying five people had a narow escape in an accident at the Ford River bridge Sunday night.

The machine was driven by Mike Simunich, Breitung. In trying to pass a car driven by C. G. Bridges, road contractor, Simunich struck the rear of the Bridges automobile, caving in the back, and then swerved into the wire cable guard along the bridge grade. Four posts were broken off, but the cable held the car from toppling over, and all the occupants escaped injury.

Mr. Simunich has assumed all responsibility for the mishap, according to officers of the sheriff's department who investigated the accident, and he will make settlement for the damages.

SOME PAINT JOB

London—When workers start to paint the Forth Bridge they meet a crew just finishing—for it takes three years to paint the mile and one-half of steel. Thirty men are kept constantly at work painting this huge structure and more than 50 tons of paint are used to go over it completely.

NEVER before in 42 years have we offered such drastic reductions on fine clothing. A change of policy explained elsewhere in this announcement makes these reductions necessary. Men who are accustomed to paying under $30 for clothing will find wearing qualities and style they've never had before for a few dollars additional. Men who usually pay $45 for their suits can save $12 on this sale. It is an opportunity that should not be overlooked by any man.

Sizes 33 to 50

longs, stubs, stouts, and regulars—Every man can be fitted.

A CHANGE IN OUR CLOTHING POLICY MAKES THIS SALE NECESSARY

We are going to confine our $40 clothing line to WORSTED-TEX. We will not sell any other brand of clothing at this price.

Consequently we must clear our stocks of all $40 and $45 clothing to make room for the additional WORSTED-TEX garments. There is only one way to do it . . . put the prices down to cost and offer the suits to the public with a frank explanation of the reason for this action. WE ARE NOT APOLOGIZING FOR THESE SUITS. They are all new Hart Schaffner & Marx and Curlee suits with one and two trousers of exceptionally fine quality fabrics and tailored with a high standard of workmanship. We are not dropping Hart Schaffner and Marx clothing. Our new policy of concentration will feature H. S. & M. 1 and 2 trouser suits at $27.50 and $35 and the famous H. S. & M. Gordian Worsted line at $50. We will be in a better position to offer you the best clothing values in the city. In the meantime take advantage of the unprecedented opportunity offered in this sale. It won't come again.
